GOVT PLANS MINIMUM LEVEL OF GREEN ENERGY FOR FACTORIES

Power ministry proposes tweaking law to make industries use a minimum share of renewable energy for electricity needs

DEVELOPING A CARBON MARKET IN INDIA

The proposed amendments to the Energy Conservation Act, 2001 are intended to "enhance demand for renewable energy at the end-use sectors such as industry, buildings, transport etc," the Ministry of Power said in a statement. They would also help in the development of a carbon market and the promotion of green hydrogen as a fossil-fuel alternative

INCENTIVES FOR PRIVATE SECTOR

■ The proposal comes in the wake of India rejecting net-zero carbon targets as the solution for the global climate crisis
■ Though a minimum-use percentage hasn't been specified, the power ministry said carbon-saving certificates will be issued to companies. Carbon credits will also be given as extra incentives

PM Modi meets Pope, invites him to India

Prime Minister Narendra Modi with Pope Francis at the Vatican City on Saturday | P11

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi met Pope Francis at the Vatican on Saturday, the first meeting between an Indian PM and the Pope in more than two decades, and invited the 84-year-old pontiff to visit India at the earliest convenient date. The meeting, originally scheduled for 20 minutes, went on for an hour as the two leaders discussed a wide range of issues, including the immediate challenges posed by the pandemic and climate change.

The invitation "was accepted with pleasure", the Ministry of External Affairs said, but there was no immediate confirmation from the Vatican. "The cordial relations between the Holy See and India were discussed," said a brief note issued by the Holy See Press office.

Pope Francis wanted to visit India in 2017 but could not due to procedural and scheduling issues. John Paul II was the last Pope to visit India in 1999.

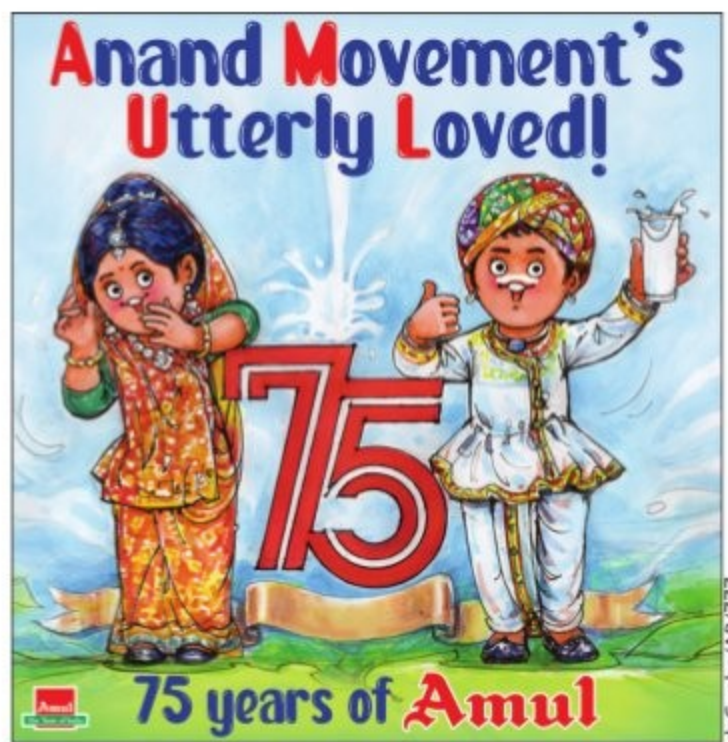

G20 BACKS GLOBAL MINIMUM CORPORATE TAX

G20 leaders have formally endorsed the global landmark agreement for a minimum 15% corporate tax, seeking to stop large corporations from moving profits and jobs across borders to evade taxes. P9, 12

On Saturday, Modi gave Pope a silver candelabra and a book on climate change. The pontiff reciprocated with a collection of his main teachings and a bronze medallion featuring a tree with the inscription "The desert will become a garden". "Thank you very much for your visit," Francis said to Modi in English, holding his hands, adding: "I am happy."

"Had a very warm meeting with Pope Francis," Modi tweeted.

The last time an Indian PM visited the Vatican was in 2000, when late Atal Bihari Vajpayee met Pope John Paul II. Modi is on a two-day visit to Rome for the G20 summit.

Congress making Modi powerful: Didi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

FAULTLINES in the opposition once again came to the fore on Saturday when West Bengal CM Mamata Banerjee alleged that the Congress was making Prime Minister Narendra Modi and the BJP "more powerful" by acting as the party's publicist.

"Modiji is going to be more powerful because of the Congress... because the Congress is the BJP's TRP (television rating points). If they (the Congress) cannot take a decision, the country will suffer. Why (should) the country suffer, they have had enough opportunities," the Trinamool Congress party chief said.

She also ruled out any possibility of an alliance with the Congress but said regional parties should come together to defeat the BJP in Goa. Mamata is in Goa on a three-day visit ahead of the assembly polls next year and has inducted several people, including tennis star Leander Paes.

Mamata accused the Congress of failing to recognise the need for opposition unity before the West Bengal assembly polls in April-May.

"The Congress turned down a chance to ally with the Trinamool, opting instead to work with the Left and the controversial Indian Secular Front. Bengal Congress chief Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury grandly declared that there will not be any BJP or Trinamool, only the grand alliance will remain," she said. "I am not going to discuss the Congress because that is not my party."

BENGALURU: Yet to come to terms with his favourite person's passing away, Chalapathi, the gunman of actor Puneeth Rajkumar, said, "The car that was carrying Puneeth was stuck in a traffic jam at Vasanthnagar. I ran ahead and requested the traffic policemen to clear the vehicles immediately as Puneeth was being shifted to Vikram Hospital. The policemen did that, but we could not save the Power Star," Chalapathi said the popular actor was humble to his fans. "WHEN there is a death in the family, we do not cook food at home," said Lakshamma, a fan of popular actor Puneeth Rajkumar, who passed away on Friday. Stoves did not burn at many homes in Bengaluru for the second day in a row following Puneeth's death, whom the fans considered their own family.

At many localities across the city, community food was being cooked and served to those mourning the actor's death. Though it was the weekend, traffic was thin in parts of Bengaluru on Saturday as all roads from across Karnataka led to Kanteerava Stadium, where the mortal remains of the actor were kept for public viewing.

"We have not cooked to show our love for him. It feels like I have lost my brother," said Lakshamma.

Shocked by the actor's death, four fans across the state died since Friday. The actor's family announced that the last rites of Puneeth will be held with state honours on Sunday at Kanteerava Studios. He will be laid to rest next to his parents around 10.30 am. Fans will be allowed to pay their last respects at Kanteerava Stadium till 6 am.

At the stadium on Saturday, thousands of people, chanting, cheering and crying, gathered to say final goodbye to Puneeth. With all gates but one closed, Vittal Mallya Road was jam-packed with his followers trying to get in. P4

For Guledgudda artisans, weaves turn weeps

Inspired by Badami

Guledgudda Khana is a fabric that has distinct patterns inspired by nature, folk art and stone architecture of Badami caves, which are close to this place. The fabric is weaved with the finest cotton and silk yarns.

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

THERE is a sad story unspooling behind "Guledgudda Khana", the traditional fabric from Guledgudda taluk of Bagalkot district that has its own GI tag. The demand for the fine cloth had been dipping over the last few years, and the pandemic made it only worse.

Many weavers, who were pursuing the traditional and ancestral craft, had sold their handlooms and moved to Bengaluru in search of livelihoods. They ended up becoming security guards, hotel and bar employees and construction workers, earning meagre sums.

When Covid-induced restrictions were announced, these weavers wanted to move back to their villages and continue with their traditional profession. But sadly, there are not enough looms and work to absorb them all. The taluk that had over 8,000 handlooms a few years ago has just around 200 now. "The reason is also that while most old homes had looms, the newly renovated ones do not, as they have tiles on the floor and villagers feel looms damage the flooring. While they were self-employed earlier, they now look for jobs with those who have more number of looms," said one of the weavers. P7

Kohli slams 'spineless' trolls targeting Shami

VENKATA KRISHNA B @ Chennai

WHEN Mohammed Shami was subjected to online abuse after the loss to Pakistan, the team was silent while former India players rallied behind him.

During the pre-match interaction on Saturday, Virat Kohli supported his teammate. He called the trolls spineless. Speaking publicly for the first time since the incident, Kohli came down hard on those who abused Shami over his faith.

"To me attacking someone over their religion is the most, I would say, pathetic thing that a human being can do," Kohli said. "That is a very personal and a sacred thing to every human being and that should be left there. They have no understanding of the fact that someone like Mohammed Shami has won India 'n' number of matches in the last few years and he's been our primary bowler with Jasprit Bumrah when it comes to making an impact in games, in Test cricket. I mean, if people can overlook that and his passion for the country, I honestly don't even want to waste one minute of my life to give any attention to those people." P17

National Service Scheme (NSS) volunteers, students, civil servants and competitive exam aspirants together clean the kalyani at Jakkanaahalli village in Srirangapatna

REFURBISHING HISTORY

A group of young volunteers is on a mission to restore dilapidated temples, kalyanis and lakes and to keep them alive

KARTHIK K K @ Mysuru

It is said that people without the knowledge of their past – glorious or horrid – are like trees without roots. And a group of young volunteers in Mysuru is determined to nurture these trees and pass on the treasure trove of history to future generations.

Braving reptiles and brambles, hundreds of National Service Scheme (NSS) volunteers, students and civil servant and competitive exam aspirants are on a mission to restore lakes, ponds, kalyanis (temple tanks), ancient temples and other structures in Mysuru and Mandya regions, which lie in a state of neglect.

Over the past four years, this group of NSS volunteers from Seshadripuram Degree College in Mysuru, Marathahalli, and volunteers of Achievers' Academy in Srirangapatna (which offers free competitive exam training) have given a new lease of life to at least 10 kalyanis, four lakes and many temples ruined by the vagaries of nature and time.

What started as an initiative as part of the NSS programme under the leadership of Dr Raghavendra R, NSS programme officer of Seshadripuram Degree College, is now a full-fledged movement with over 300 young volunteers sweating it out to restore these gems to their past glory.

Upon receiving information on any ruined water body or temple in the region, Raghavendra visits the spot and first converses with the villagers, then obtains necessary permission from the officials concerned, and draws up a plan of revival with students and members of his academy, Achievers' Academy.

Equipped with the required tools, the volunteers then plunge into action. Though these water bodies or temple structures or mantapas are mostly covered with weed and are home to reptiles and insects, some even poisonous, the volunteers brave it out for their mission. After the cleaning process, the volunteers also ensure that the waterbody is filled to the brim with fresh water and often visit the structures to ensure they are maintained properly.

"NSS aims to develop a student's personality through community service. So, by involving NSS volunteers of our college, we decided to clean up kalyanis and make them fully functional again. That is how it all started.

Students of our academy too joined us in the restoration drive... they come voluntarily with great zeal and passion to give back something fruitful to society," says Raghavendra. "We ensure that all precautionary measures are taken and equipment needed is made available to our volunteers. We talk to the villagers to get a clear idea of the place and obtain the necessary permission from the officials," he adds.

Most of the tanks, lakes and temples they take up for revival are more than a century old and are said to be built during the period of erstwhile Mysuru kings and Tipu Sultan. "Many tanks would have dried up or become polluted with waste or construction debris. These places were once a lifeline to many in the surroundings, and temple priests would take water from the tanks to offer puja. Ours is an attempt to not only revive them, but also make people aware about their historical importance," says Raghavendra.

Though the task looks simple for a layman, it is not. Students and volunteers manually clear the weeds and remove muck, and no machines are involved.

"We had to once cross a river to clean a temple constructed on an island. It was a difficult task. But in the end, we felt content that we could restore the temple for the next generation to cherish," says a volunteer.

"I continue to be part of many such activities taken up by the group. I feel it is important to give back to society more than questioning what society has given us. Volunteering gives me a great sense of satisfaction," says Yashwanth, a NSS cadet.

Nisarga, a PSIA aspirant, says, "I was happy seeing the noble work of Raghavendra and his group of NSS students, which motivated me to take part in the restoration. I even volunteered with them during the Covid-19 pandemic."

The volunteers also take up door-to-door campaigns and activities to sensitise people in villages on diverse issues, ranging from sanitation to cleanliness. They also actively created awareness on Covid pandemic by educating villagers on the guidelines to follow.

A 23-year-old Udupi woman from a humble background has chosen mountaineering as a means to challenge herself and life

PROUD PARENTS

Sumalatha's parents Babu and Bittu say they felt proud when they saw their daughter waving the Tricolour on the country's peaks. They express confidence that their daughter will continue her mountaineering expedition, despite all its challenges. Sumalatha is known as the 'Himalayan Girl' in her tiny village.

Himalayan Heights

Prakash Samaga @Udupi

THE Himalayas form the epicentre of the mountaineering boom, reflecting several emotions – of awe, endurance and glory – for those who want to take on its snowy peaks and rocky faces. While this inhospitable mountain range can throw a challenge or two to those who want to reach its top, the difficulty in scaling the heights of life's challenges comes with its own needed preparedness and uncertainty.

This tale of a young woman from Udupi, who is scaling new heights literally as a mountaineer despite a background of modest means, is as interesting as it is inspiring.

Sumalatha Bajagoli has always taken life head-on. A daughter of a daily-wage labourer and homemaker, the young woman from Maala, Bajagoli of Karkala taluk in Udupi district has learnt the art of climbing out of financial perils since childhood. Unaffected by the struggles, the 23-year-old chose a rewarding path in life, albeit challenging, precarious, and fraught with mortal danger. Driven by resolve and determination, Sumalatha took to mountaineering.

"The warden at my college, Suchitra Suvarna, motivated me to take it up and also enabled me to become a part of a mountaineering expedition organised by the General Thimayya National Academy of Adventure," she says.

Having climbed mountains in parts of the Himalayas during 2017 and 2019, in September this year, she achieved her third mountaineering adventure, scaling a height of 15,407 feet at Pahalgam Mount Sunset Point in Jammu and Kashmir. She was part of a 30-member team, which included 10 women.

UP ABOVE THE WORLD SO HIGH

In 2017, overcoming altitude sickness, Sumalatha ascended Sikadhar Shikar, reaching a height of 14,800 feet for the first time. In 2019, she ascended the Thajiwas tabletop at Sonamarg in Jammu and Kashmir, reaching the height of 11,500 feet. In the third expedition, organised by the Indian Mountaineering Foundation along with the General Thimayya National Academy of Adventure in September this year, Sumalatha touched an altitude of 15,407 feet on Pahalgam Mount Sunset Point, again in the Union Territory.

Cyclists pedal their way to raise cancer awareness

ENS @ Bengaluru

'CANCER is curable' - the message resonated across Whitefield on Saturday with more than 100 cyclists pedalling across the area to spread awareness about the issue. Organised by Rainbow Children's Hospital, the mega cyclothon was held to fund treatment of underprivileged kids suffering from cancer.

Flagging off the event, former minister and MLA for Mahadevapura Aravind Limbavali said, "I am extremely proud to flag off this cyclothon. This will help hundreds of kids get cancer treatment at the earliest."

The cyclists covered 24km along the Varthur Road, Forum

Mall and Hope Farm, before returning to Rainbow Children's Hospital, Marathahalli.

Speaking about the concerns on childhood cancer and how early detection is the key, Dr Rakshay Shetty, Head, Paediatric Intensive Care Services, Rainbow Children's Hospital said, "Childhood cancer is not rare. However, the good news is that majority of the cases are curable, provided they get the right treatment at the right facility."

Meanwhile, Dr Vasudha N Rao, Consultant Paediatric Oncology at Rainbow Children's Hospital, added that the cyclothon also raised funds for CAN-KIDS, an NGO helping thousands of childhood cancer patients all over India.

That 80s show: Renovated Bal Bhavan to refresh memories

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

NOT just children, even adults who grew up in Bengaluru in the 1980s will soon have an opportunity to relive their childhood at the restored Bal Bhavan in the city's prime lung space, Cubbon Park.

The Bal Bhavan Society and Smart City Mission team are working on recreating Bal Bhavan as it was in the 1980s, with a summer camp area, puppet show area, a toy train, boating, pond with aqua life and even a horse riding ring. However, all this will be ready only in June 2022.

To replicate details of the Bal Bhavan of yore, architects, engineers and Society members are studying photographs of those years, and getting information from members, heritage associations and even from Bengalureans who spent their childhood here.

Initially, when the project was conceptualised, it cost Rs 6 crore, but the Society is yet to submit the complete plan to the Smart City team, after which the project cost is likely to increase, Bengaluru Smart City Mission Limited Managing Director Rajendra Cholan said. The project was initially not a part of Smart City works, but was included two months ago.

DELIMITATION PANEL'S TERM EXTENDED BY SIX MONTHS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Urban Development Department (UDD) has issued extending the term of the BBMP ward delimitation committee by six months, citing the pandemic situation. With this, the delimitation of the BBMP wards and increasing them from 198 to 243 will happen only early next year.

The order, issued on Saturday, stated that the delimitation committee was given a term of six months, which ended on July 7. As it has already been three months past that deadline, the chief minister has given the committee time till January 28, 2022. The BBMP council elections can be held in February-March, only after delimitation.

According to sources in the BBMP, the order has come a week before the Supreme Court hearing on the delimitation and elections. Since the State Government has no supporting documents to explain the delay, it has cited the pandemic, they said.

The sources also claimed that the state has diverted all corporators' and city development funds to MLAs, and if elections are to be held at this stage, there is no money to give to corporators, conduct elections or take up civic works. Another reason is that the government is waiting for the by-poll results. After that, they will decide whether elections can be held to the city corporation council, they added.

'Know how much you can stretch yourself'

CHETANA BELAGERE
@ Bengaluru

RECENT research has revealed that 20 per cent of heart attacks occur in individuals aged 45 years or younger and this number has been rising by 2 per cent every year over the last decade. Renowned consultant interventional cardiologist and electrophysiologist at Apollo Hospitals, Bannerghatta Road, Dr Abhijit V Kulkarni talks about why seemingly fit people are dying of heart attacks and also the urgency to become fit causing such deaths. He speaks on how it is no longer 'one size fits all' kind of situation and says every exercise regimen and lifestyle has to be customised.

Is there really an increase in youngsters dying due to heart attacks?
Celebrities dying due to heart attacks is only the tip of the iceberg. We are definitely seeing an increase in youngsters dying due to heart attacks. Earlier, it was older people getting affected, but my youngest patient is just 19 years old. In my practice, I am seeing an increase in patients aged 35-50 years dying due to heart attacks. There is sudden change in the overall symptomatology and seemingly normal people are coming with heart attacks some salvable, some not.

Is there a difference between cardiac arrest and heart attack?

The thumb rule should be to get a medical check done first, know your body and how much you can stretch yourself. Hit the gym only after this understanding

Dr Abhijit V Kulkarni, Cardiologist

Heart attacks and cardiac arrest are two different phenomena. We see a lot of heart attacks among the young as their arteries are not accustomed to blockages. Cardiac arrests are caused by either ventricular tachycardia or ventricular fibrillation in the lower chamber of the heart. Tachycardia is when the heart beat goes beyond the normal heart rate while fibrillation is when the heart starts quivering and does not pump blood out from the heart. Heart attacks, on the other hand, are due to blockages in the blood circulation while cardiac arrests are more "electrical in nature". Irregularities in the beating of the heart, called as arrhythmias, are the reason for sudden cardiac arrests.

SUNDAY INTERVIEW

Why are these deaths happening in people who exercise and are seemingly fit?
Exercise and healthy lifestyle are needed and they surely provide protection against diseases. There is no denying the fact that we need to exercise and be active, but the key here possibly is moderation. Post Covid, many people seem to be in a hurry to get fit. Stressing oneself can actually become a problem. Pushing the limits is not advisable. The brain sometimes has the capacity to drive you, but the body cannot support it. Vigorous exertion leads to rupture of the blockage in the blood vessels, leading to clot formation, which leads to an abnormal heart rhythm known as ventricular fibrillation, and ultimately death.

What are the precautions youngsters can take?

The thumb rule should be to get a medical check done first, know your body and how much you can stretch yourself. Hit the gym only after this understanding. Many youngsters follow a work hard-party hard mantra, which involves sleeping late and waking up early to hit the gym. In the absence of adequate sleep (six to eight hours), the body undergoes certain hormonal changes — an excess of stress hormones is produced, which accumulate in the body. After a period of sedentary activity, getting too charged up the next day and hitting a treadmill may not be a good idea. Even if your body is trained, muscles may be capable, but if you are dehydrated or blood has thickened due to some other illness, then you are only seeing the mechanical part of cardiac activity. But it doesn't work like that. To mimic your favourite personality/sports figure/actor, you need not build muscles like them. There is no one-size-fits-all scenario anymore. Life has to be tailor-made.

Also, anabolic steroids and muscle-building drugs that boost metabolism, can definitely provoke heart attacks, though there are not many studies. So they are best avoided. Stress is again something that can't be quantified. Though it is not an objective parameter, it surely adds to becoming a factor for heart attacks. So keeping one's mental health fit through Yoga, meditation, etc., is the key.

Are there any precautions that gyms must take?

All these centres must have facilities where even if some sort of incidents like these happen, they should be able to retrieve the person. These places must have an automated external defibrillator (AED). The AEDs are portable easy-to-use life-saving devices that can be used to shock a person's heart back into rhythm if it has stopped or is beating irregularly. Most gyms and public places in western countries have this. When granting licence, or when someone is certified as a trainer, he should know how to do CPR or use AEDs to revive a person.

What role does Covid-19 play in such attacks?

Covid-19 is definitely making an impact. During the course of infection, there's acute inflammation of the blood vessels and the blood clots, which result in heart ailments. The risk of heart ailments, we feel, is higher for Covid-19 patients because of the added level of inflammation in the body and stress the heart faces in such critical times.

What are the warning signs one should watch out for during exercises?

Heaviness, chest pain, breathing difficulties, unusual sweating, dizziness, light-headedness, and heart rhythm abnormalities are some of the red flags. Most typical symptoms are attributed to their recent activities and ignored. That should not be done.

What are the routine tests to be done?

Cardiac tests should include risk factor testing for diabetes, hypertension, obesity, family history of cardiac-related ailments, etc.

347 new Covid-19 cases, 10 deaths in Karnataka

BENGALURU: Karnataka reported 347 new cases of Covid-19 and 10 deaths on Saturday, taking the total number of infections to 29,88,041 and death toll to 38,071. While the positivity rate for the day stood at 0.31 per cent, the case fatality rate was 2.88 per cent. The positivity rate in seven districts — Kodagu, Mysuru, Hassan, Tumakuru, Dakshina Kannada, Uttara Kannada and Bengaluru Urban — is higher than state average of 0.31 per cent. In the last four weeks, Bengaluru has reported 4,469 new cases, followed by Mysuru at 990 cases. ENS

More symptomatic Covid cases in Udupi district

UDUPI: Symptomatic Covid-19 cases are on the rise in Udupi district. Though positive cases have been on a decline in the district for more than two months now, of the total positive cases reported in the last 20 days, about 70 per cent of them were symptomatic. On October 29, 19 fresh cases were reported, and nine of them showed symptoms. Of 19 Covid positive cases reported from October 24 to 27, 18 of them had symptoms. Udupi DHO Dr Nagabhushan Udupa said that incidents of more symptomatic cases are a caution to people to follow norms strictly. ENS

Daily cases come down to single digit in Shivamogga district

SHIVAMOGGA: The number of Covid cases have come down to single digit on most days for the last two weeks in the district, a development which officials termed as "almost the end of the second wave of the pandemic." According to officials, the last death due to Covid was reported on October 21. Since October 23, the district has been reporting single-digit Covid cases. Active cases are well below the 50-mark and the positivity rate stands at 0.02 per cent. DHO Dr Rajesh Suragihalli told TNSE, "Around 38% to 39% of the population is fully vaccinated." ENS

A STAR GONE TOO SOON

PUNEETH'S LAST RITES WITH STATE HONOURS TODAY

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

Even as thousands of grieving fans continued to flock the Sri Kanteerava Stadium on Saturday to pay their final respects to Kannada film star Puneeth Rajkumar, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai announced that the last rites of the actor will be conducted with state honours at the Dr Rajkumar Punyabhoomi in Kanteerava Studios on Sunday. The decision was taken after discussions with Puneeth's elder brothers Shiv-arajkumar, Raghavendra Rajkumar and other family members, he said.

Bommai also appealed to the actor's fans to maintain peace so that all get to pay their respects to the actor till the procession reaches Kanteerava Studios near Nandini Layout on Outer Ring Road. While the police will continue to be deployed across the city, mainly on roads leading from the Sri Kanteerava Stadium to Kanteerava Studios, where Puneeth Rajkumar will be laid to rest next to his parents, Dr Rajkumar and Parvathamma Rajkumar, Home Minister Araga Jnanendra said that 50 KSRP platoons, along with the city police have been deployed to ensure no untoward incidents take place. Also, the Rapid Action Force teams will lead the procession, which will pass through Mysuru Bank Circle, Palace Road, Chalukya Circle, Cauvery Junction and Goraguntepalya.

Meanwhile, based on the family's request, only family, relatives and VIPs will be allowed to enter Kanteerava Studios and the public will not be allowed, a senior police officer from North Division said. The family is said to have requested the authorities to allow the public to pay their visit to the late actor at Kanteerava Stadium till 6 am on Sunday.

'Appu came to me with complaint of weakness'

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

NOTED city-based physician and cardiologist Dr B Rama-na Rao had tended to Kannada superstar Puneeth Rajkumar from the age of eight till his last day on Friday. Puneeth, along with his wife Ashwini, had met Dr Rao at his clinic in Sadashivanagar on October 29 before he was rushed to Vikram Hospital.

Dr Rao has been their family physician for over three decades and had personally attended to the late Kannada matinee icon Dr Rajkumar all through until his death in April, 2006.

"Appu (Puneeth) came to my clinic with Ashwini around 11.20 am on Friday. He complained of weakness after having exercised for two hours, which was his normal everyday routine. In addition, he had done some boxing followed by steaming after his workout. When I checked him, I found his blood pressure and heart normal and the lungs, clear," Dr Rao told TNIE.

Narrating the sequence of events that led to the untimely demise of the 46-year-old superstar, Dr Rao said he found that Puneeth was sweating and advised him to get an ECG done. "He told me that he may be sweating because of the additional workout. We did an ECG in the clinic and found some strain patterns. There was however, no infarction. He had not suffered a heart attack. I advised him to get admitted to Vikram Hospital. I called up doctors at the hospital and informed them. We followed the couple to the hospital," said Dr Rao.

"Appu died of cardiac arrest. It was a sudden death. He had no previous medical history of any type, like hypertension or diabetes. He was the fittest among all his family members. He was a role model of fitness. I used to quote his example to people and my patients," he added.

Dr Rao said that 10 days ago, Puneeth had visited him for a mild sinus issue. "He was fine the next day," he said.

Dr Rao is also a Padma Shree awardee and has been conducting free clinics every Sunday at his village T Begur, 45 km from Bengaluru, for 48 years. "Appu and Ashwini had visited the clinic once. We offered them lunch separately, but both refused and instead, sat down with the patients for a sambar-rice meal. Humility was ingrained in Appu. I still can't come to terms that he is gone. It is like losing a son," mourned the physician.

4 die after news of Puneeth's death

"I'm crazy about him. I've been following his career since his childhood and I love all of his songs. I love his dancing. Every time I got the opportunity, I would perform to his songs," said Sanjana Raju.

Actors and friends from all over the country made their way through the crowds, with dozens of fans surrounding their car to get a selfie. Puneeth's family had gathered with Shiv-arajkumar bidding a tearful goodbye to his brother. Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot, CM Basavaraj Bommai and actors like Balakrishna, Junior NTR, Arjun Sarja and Daggubati Venkatesh, among many others, also paid tribute to the actor. "I was sad after hearing the news of his passing. My brother was so upset when he heard the news, he cried. We are in mourning and paying respects to him," said Manvarshi Navalgund, a director. He added that the actor had inspired him to become a director. Outside the stadium, thousands of people from all ages came together not only to mourn but also celebrate the actor's life. Several in the crowd including Shivanna, the late actor's brother, burst into tears when Puneeth's elder daughter Dhriti, came crying to the stadium.

Four people across the state died after hearing the news of sudden demise of Puneeth. A fan, Muniyappa (30), had a cardiac arrest in Maruru village of Hanur taluk in Chamara-janagar district. His family said that Muniyappa watched all Puneeth's movies, first day first show. He heard the news as he was returning from his farm and collapsed on the spot. Gnyanamurthi Nimgapur (40) too died after a heart attack at Chikkabaganal village in Koppal on Saturday. A grocery store owner, he was depressed when he heard the news on Friday. He was admitted to hospital, where he suffered a heart attack. In Belagavi, two fans died. Parashuram, a resident of Shindoli, was inconsolable after the actor's death. He suffered a massive heart attack late on Friday night. Rahul Gadiwaddar (22) from Athani had arranged prayers in memory of Puneeth in front of his house. After the prayers, he hanged himself to death.

TEAM TNIE

THE governments at the Centre and State may be trying to reason out the rise in prices across the board, but on the ground, it is the common man, who has already been hit by the effects of the Covid-19 pandemic, who is bearing all the brunt.

The pandemic forced people inside; private companies, hit by the economic fallout of lockdowns and restrictions, cut jobs and salaries; the education sector and children's learning abilities took a massive hit; medical expenses became a nightmare; the elders suffered medically and financially; systems were paralysed and the general social frustration levels rose like never before in our lifetimes – not to mention the 38,061 who died from Covid-19 in the state so far, many who were the sole bread-winners of the families.

With both petrol and diesel prices going over Rs 100 per litre, people solely dependent on private transport are having to deal with increased expenses, while the cascading effect has pushed up prices of essentials, making daily life more expensive. Besides automotive fuels, the price of liquefied petroleum gas (LPG) cylinders has inched closer to the Rs 1,000-mark, affecting home budgets.

Many among the middle and upper-middle-class sections, with aspirations influenced by possessions and lifestyle of higher income groups, are struggling with loan repayments amid severe salary cuts, or even job losses. The lower-middle income groups are the worse hit.

IMPACT ON FARMERS

When the effect of price rise is not passed on to customers, it is the producers and service providers who suffer. For instance, Subhash Atiwadkar, a farmer, brings fodder for his cattle and sells vegetables at the Agricultural Produce Market Committee (APMC) in Belagavi, regularly. "We are completely dependent on tractors and two-wheelers to bring green fodder for cattle. The huge jump in fuel prices this year has left us in a lurch. The expenses incurred in rearing and milching cattle is skyrocketing while there is no such rise in the price of milk for the customers (to protect profit margins). Our expenses for transporting vegetables to wholesale markets has increased due to skyrocketing diesel prices. While we fight for fair prices for our produce in the market, if things continue this way, we will be forced to give up farming," he says.

Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha vice-president K Narayana Gowda says fuel price hike is causing additional burden on farmers. For transporting a 15-kg box of vegetables from Hosamattana Halli in Kolar taluk to the APMC, a distance of 15 km, the transportation cost has jumped from Rs 10 Rs 13. Moreover, hiring a tractor costs Rs 4,500-5,000 per acre as against Rs 2,500-3,000 earlier. This is an additional burden on farmers who are already facing losses due to various issues like heavy rains damaging standing crops, he points out.

PRICE RISE SWIRL GETS ALL IN ITS WAKE

Reducing fuel price is very simple – bring it under GST and it will immediately come down by at least ₹30-₹40. The reason for state govt's opposing it is that they feel if they tax fuel, cash is collected. If it comes under GST, it will go to the Centre and a share of that will come to the state, which takes a little time. The states will get the same collections. There is also a method of shifting taxes. I suggest corporate tax for the Centre and entertainment and road tax for the state

Dr RS Deshpande, former director, ISECI

As of now, we are not able to quantify the impact of the price hike on industries and we are preparing a research paper on it. Post-Covid, we expect the government to reduce the prices

Prices per litre for petrol/diesel and per cylinder for LPG

NO AUTO CORRECT FOR PRICE HIKE

Madikeri-based Santosh Cariappa, a taxi driver, often takes commuters to Bengaluru and parts of Kerala. "The taxi drivers' association in Kodagu district charges Rs 9 per km and this rate has remained the same over many years. However, with the diesel price crossing Rs 100 per litre, we are unable to make any profits. Commuters refuse to pay extra and, if we do not agree to their demands, we will lose out on the little that we were saving," he says.

He earns about Rs 1,800 for a trip between Madikeri and Bengaluru. "This is after deducting fuel charges and includes the minimum Rs 300 driver tip. We have to spend on our food and other expenses during the travel and are left with a bare minimum after driving such long distances," he says.

Giridhar (56), an autorickshaw driver from Tanniru Halla Extension in Hassan, rues that passengers often lodge complaints with the traffic police if drivers charge extra fare. "They have no patience to listen to our problems and insist on the old fares fixed decades ago," he says, adding that he is the sole earning member of his family, and the entire family's expenses including house rent, domestic gas, electricity bills, groceries, vegetables, children's school fees and festival expenses have to be borne by him.

Coming down heavily on successive governments for often increasing prices of essential commodities, including fuel, Devaraj, a mason, says special packages should be announced for poor families and those in the unorganised sectors as they cannot save from earnings for emergencies, including health. "We dream of buying new clothes, a motorcycle and electronic gadgets till the end of our lives. Increasing fuel prices leads to increase in prices of essential commodities, diminishing whatever savings we have," he says.

A HARD LIFE

Probably the worst affected are those who are completely powerless in the face of price hikes – like Rajesh S, a parking attendant on MG Road in the heart of Bengaluru. With vehicle parking fees streamlined with automated systems brought in, people like him have to survive on what they get while having to contend with a heap of problems back home. He is increasingly burdened with the cost of cooking gas going up even as his physically challenged mother requires constant medication.

"Getting rations is very difficult for us with high food prices. Everything has become expensive in Bengaluru. Due to lack of employment options, I can't get a better job. Rain or shine, I have to stay here and take care of customers, but they don't bother about people like us."

Amol Kademani, who sells vada-pav at a roadside mobile food stall in Belagavi, says, "The increasing price of LPG and petrol/diesel is very disturbing. I sold vada-pav for Rs 10 a piece three months ago. I was forced to increase the price to Rs 15 as I am unable to match the expenses incurred on cooking. Now, I have decided to increase the price to Rs 20 as I am unable to tackle the increasing prices of LPG, cooking oil and transporting my mobile food stall," he says.

Akshay, a food delivery agent in Bengaluru, says, "I work about 15 hours a day riding around the city on my bike. Our company gives us fuel allowance of Rs 250 a day; but every day, I have to dip into my own salary and shell out an extra Rs 100, thanks to the rising petrol price. For a full tank of fuel, it costs over Rs 500, so I don't even get enough to ensure a full-tank. My company refuses to raise the petrol allowance, so now I'm struggling because even at home, the price of food and water has gone up."

Jenson V P, a retired travel manager, says, "In my experience of working with people from different backgrounds, I notice the middle and lower income people struggling a lot due to price hikes. Some are pushed to the brink of suicide because they can't support their families anymore and feel ashamed. Upper class people are able to cope, but we don't think about the people starving."

INDUSTRIALISTS HIT TOO

Ramesh Hegde, chairman of Machenahalli Industrial Area, says, "We industrialists are compromising on our profit margins. Micro and small industrialists, whose monthly turnover is less than Rs 5 lakh, are losing more as they have to compromise on profit margins. Neither the raw material supplier nor the end user will take the responsibility".

He points out that when most of the industrialists announced bonuses for their staff for Dasara, the workers demanded an increase in allowance instead of bonus. This shows how much they have been impacted by price hike.

Hanagal, Sindagi record good voter turnout

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Bengaluru

WITH intense campaigning by all three major political parties, and Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai leading the BJP from the front, the Hanagal and Sindagi bypolls witnessed a good voter turnout on Saturday. While Sindagi saw a turnout of 69.41 per cent, the turnout in Hanagal was 83.72.

The enthusiasm of the electorate was high with voter turnout similar to that of the 2018 Assembly elections. The combined turnout, however, was an estimated 6% higher than the 2019 Lok Sabha polls, leading political pundits to speculate which party would benefit by this.

For Bommai, who is completing 100 days in office, the bypolls are a test of his leadership as the BJP high command has already declared him the party's face for the 2023 Assembly elections. He not only has to retain Hanagal—which is in his home district Haveri—but also win Sindagi from the JDS.

In the Congress camp, several top leaders, including KPCC president D K Shivakumar and Leader of the Opposition Siddaramaiah, campaigned aggressively hoping that the results may set a trend for the 2023 polls. In 2018, the high voter turnout of 84.4% had helped BJP candidate the late CM Udayi in Hanagal, who defeated current Congress candidate Srinivas V Mane by a margin of 6,514 votes. The BJP has now fielded Shiv-araj Sajjanar and the JDS Niyaz Sheikh. Given the close contest between the Congress and the BJP, the JDS' performance may be a deciding factor. The Congress is worried as the JDS has fielded a candidate from the Minority community and this may result in a split of minority votes which could help the BJP. The BJP is banking on aggressive campaigns by Bommai, former CM BS Yediyurappa and scores of other ministers, including Murugesh Nirani and J C Madhuswamy and MP Shivakumar Udayi. The Congress is banking on its candidate Srinivas V Mane's rapport with the voters and his work during the Covid-19 pandemic. JDS leader and former CM HD Kumaraswamy too campaigned aggressively for Sheikh.

In Sindagi, Bommai, Yediyurappa and ministers Shashikala Jolle, V Somanna and Govind Karjol campaigned hard for BJP's Ramesh Bhusanur, who had lost to M C Managuli in 2018 by 9,305 votes.

The Congress has fielded Ashok Managuli, the son of late M C Managuli, and the JDS has fielded Nazliya Angadi, for whom former PM and party supreme HD Deve Gowda campaigned hard. The results of the bypolls will be out on November 2.

INSTANCES of miscreants pelting stones at trains have increased in the Bengaluru Railway Division, with trains running between Hebbal-Banaswadi as well as Lottegollahalli-Hebbal and tracks near Channasandra and Tumakuru stations being targeted.

The Bhubaneswar-KSR Bengaluru Special was damaged on October 21 and was delayed by 92 minutes. The issue has been discussed during the weekly safety review meeting held by the General Manager, South

The Railways has appealed to people to report incidents of stone-pelting | FILE

Western Railway, Sanjeev Kishore with the three divisions (Bengaluru, Mysuru and Hubballi) and the constructions organisation. Kishore has appealed to the public to pro-actively report the incidents of deliberate mischief. "Railway property is public property and damage to such property is a national loss. Public may report on all kinds of miscreant activity/concerns pertaining to safety on helpline number 139," he said.

The GM added that acts of mischief on railway tracks may not only cause safety issues, but may also turn fatal. The release said that in the case of the Bhubaneswar train, the Railway Protection Force has registered an FIR under Sections 147 & 154 of the Railway Act and one person has been detained. Cases have been registered by the RPF in connection with other incidents too.

No bail for Bidar man who stashed 7,200 litres of liquor at home

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court rejected bail for an accused, who was arrested on charges of illegally storing 7,200 litres of liquor at his residence. The accused, Nagaraj (27), is a resident of Waddar Colony in Bidar.

"Having perused the material on record which discloses that the petitioner has stored a total of 7,200 litres of liquor and 8 litres of toddy in his house, and considering that he has been committing similar offences from 2017-18 onwards and six cases being registered against him, it is not a fit case to exercise discretion under Section 439 of the CrPC in favour of the petitioner. If he is enlarged on bail, he would again indulge in such offences. Also, not being convicted in any case is not a ground to grant bail," said Justice HP

Sandesh, at the Kalaburagi Bench of the High Court, while rejecting the bail plea.

The accused was booked under provisions of the Karnataka Excise Act by the Excise Police Station, Bidar. When an Excise Inspector raided the house, the petitioner had escaped. The counsel for the petitioner argued that while five cases were registered against his client, the latter is not convicted in any of them as all cases were false. The offences alleged against him are not punishable with death or imprisonment for life, and hence, he may be enlarged on bail, he argued.

In counter, the prosecution contended that the petitioner is a habitual offender, who has repeatedly indulged in committing similar offences. The present case is his sixth. If he is granted bail, he could indulge in offences again, it mentioned.

On Saturday, voters stand to vote in the Huzarabad byelections | EXPRESS

Low voter turnout at Badvel bypolls

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Vijayawada

THE bypoll to the Badvel SC reserved Assembly constituency in Kadapa district passed off peacefully but the voter turnout was lesser when compared to the 2019 elections. While the turnout was more than 76 percent in the 2019 elections, it came to 68.12 per cent by 7 pm this time.

Barring stray incidents of BJP leaders levelling allegations of bogus voting and shifting of people from neighbouring Assembly constituencies to cast bogus votes in Atluru mandal falling under the constituency, the polling went on peacefully.

The voting started on a slow note with overcast conditions in the initial hours and a little over 10 percent votes were polled in the first two hours. People started to come out to cast their votes as the sun started to come out and the voting percentage started to improve by afternoon. Elderly people and women stood in queues for hours together at some places and the police ensured that physical distancing is maintained in the lines. At Puttaipalle booth, a woman fell unconscious after standing in a queue for a longer period and she was administered first aid. At three places, the EVMs developed technical glitches and were immediately replaced.

Kerala law panel for anti-sorcery law

Commission recommends bills against moral policing, protecting rights of domestic workers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@T'Puram

THE Kerala Law Reforms Commission has recommended to the government to enact legislation against sorcery and black magic. A stringent law to check moral-policing incidents has also been recommended. In its latest report submitted to Law Minister P Rajeev, the commission has taken note of the disturbing trends in society and the ineffectiveness of existing laws to deal with issues such as sorcery and moral policing.

Of the several moral policing incidents reported in the state recently, some saw victims either taking their own lives or getting killed.

While murder cases related to moral policing invite strong charges under IPC, the act of beating up persons and humiliating them often attract minor charges, like house trespass and clash between two groups. This allows attackers to secure bail easily and escape with minor punishments. Hence, the commission has suggested a new legislation that will effectively address incidents of moral policing on grounds of religion, caste or gender and mob violence.

The draft bill to prevent evil practices such as sorcery and black magic was mooted by the commission in 2019, on the lines of the anti-superstition and black magic act passed in Maharashtra and Karnataka. The draft bill suggests that the government is required to organise continuous awareness programmes against superstitious practices as such beliefs are still deep-rooted in a major section of society.

Another bill mooted by the commission is meant to provide legal protection to those who help accident victims during golden hours. The commission noted that stigma in attending to accident cases is still high in society and the majority of people are reluctant to offer help because of the legal tangles that might entrap them afterwards. Another bill is for regulating registration and activities of residents' associations and apartment owners' associations. A bill to protect the rights of domestic help, and to fix their minimum wages and improve their working conditions has also been mooted.

Former UGC chairman alleges lack of equity as NEP guns for quality

PEARL D'SOUZA @ Bengaluru

"ACCESS to quality education suggested in the National Education Policy 2020, will happen at the cost of denial of access to large majority of the poor and deprived sections," said Prof Sukhadeo Thorat, Former chairman UGC on Saturday. He was speaking at the academic session of the two day Conference by the All India Save Education Committee.

Prof Thorat noted that the duration of a degree course (with an option of four year degree) not just increases the cost of education, making it inaccessible to the poor sections, but also creates a hierarchy within the degree — some will be a bachelor with three years, some with four years — which disrupts the uniformity of 3 plus 2 years in higher education brought in by the Kothari commission.

"Unitary university is an American concept wherein all UG PG PhD are under one shed — as opposed to the existing system in India of affiliating system where we have a university and hundreds of colleges that are affiliated to it — geographically limits students from higher education. At present students go to nearby colleges in small towns and larger villages. Adding to this constraint is NEP's proposal of a larger university in district places — 360 bigger universities to be setup in districts and putting colleges in cluster universities in medium term. On privatisation the NEP says it will continue with the policy of non profit university/ institution — which means they are not allowed to have profit but allowed to have surplus which is to be invested to be university itself — and we know what a surplus is — its indirectly a profit," he said.

Meanwhile, Irfan Habib, a historian accused the UGC syllabus of being racial because it begins with a concern to prove that Indians were the original Aryans. "At the same time they bring the racial issue India by their manifestly, anti-Dravidian position in claiming the Indus civilisation for the Aryans," he said.

Historian Romila Thapar said "An aspect of importance in a history textbook is training students to understand the meaning of what we call historical sources. Oral tradition is significant and should not be treated casually, but has to be tested for reliability."

Kannada compulsory, teachers may lose jobs

DONNA EVA @ Bengaluru

THE hasty implementation of NEP has resulted in confusion and chaos during the start of the new academic year, especially among language teachers who now face the possibility of losing their jobs.

With the implementation, students native to Karnataka will be required to study Kannada for their first year of college. Students coming from out of the state will be required to study functional Kannada for one semester; and have the option to choose another language for another semester in their first year.

The policy's implementation has led to a drastic shortage of teaching hours for other language teachers. Teaching hours for Kannada teachers, however, have shot up. Numerous Bengaluru colleges are scrambling to hire staff to make up for the compulsory Kannada hours.

Francis D'Almeida, principal of Loyola Degree College, expressed his concerns on the implementation, saying, "While it is a step towards holistic education, it is detrimental to the management because of the difficulty in arranging Kannada lecturers."

A few teachers had agreed to talk to TNIE on the implementation on condition of anonymity. A Sanskrit professor said, "All our classes have been shuffled, there's definitely a cutting short of hours. We're paid on an hourly basis too, so our pay has been cut also."

Four Sanskrit organisations, Samskrita Bharati (Karnataka) Trust, Mahavidyalaya Samskrita Pradhayapaka Sangha, Hayagriva Trust and Vyoma Linguistic Labs Foundation, filed a PIL in early October questioning the decision of the government to implement compulsory Kannada for students. As of October 26, Karnataka HC orally asked the state government to reconsider the decision with the next hearing scheduled for November 10. Failure for the government to reconsider will result in orders dated August 7, 2021, and September 15, 2021, to be stayed.

"So far we haven't received any orders from the government to revise the decision," said Prof B Thimmes Gowda, vice-chairman of KSEHC.

Speaking to TNIE, Dr Shridhara Bhat, head of the Sanskrit department at SDM College, Ujire, and part of one of the petitioning organisations, said, "Freedom of selection of language should be given to the students. Compulsory Kannada curtails that freedom, so we've moved the PIL."

Only green crackers this Deepavali

Bengaluru: Only sale of green crackers are allowed in the state during this Deepavali season. In a detailed guideline issued by the state government on Saturday, it was said that people are only allowed to burst green crackers from November 1 to 10, after obtaining approvals from the departments concerned. Green cracker shops can be opened only on open grounds, away from residential areas. A distance of minimum six metres will have to be maintained between two shops. Vendors and citizens are to strictly adhere to Covid protocols, else cases will be registered under the Disaster Management Act and Section 188 of the IPC.

Cap of 500 people for Rajyotsava celebrations

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

STATE Chief Secretary P Ravikumar released detailed guidelines for Kannada Rajyotsava celebrations, which will be observed across the state on November 1. Due to Covid restrictions, only 500 people can assemble at one place.

According to the guidelines, this year's Rajyotsava has to be a simple affair. Citizens are expected to follow Covid-appropriate behaviour by wearing a mask, washing or sanitising hands and maintaining social distance. It also said that organisers have to get permission from local police, local civic body, Escoms, health department, fire department, pollution control board and other stakeholders for cultural programmes.

The guidelines have also asked senior citizens, children and people with co-morbidities to refrain from attending such events. Action will be taken under IPC Section 188 and Disaster Management Act, 2005 against people who fail to adhere to the norms.

POWERLOOMS USE CHEAPER RAW MATERIAL: NGO HEAD

ERANNA Chella once owned two handlooms. He sold them a few years ago, moved to Bengaluru and started doing odd jobs. When the pandemic struck last year, he returned to his village. "Since I don't have a loom, I am working with a weaver. You need to invest a lot of money to start a loom and source the raw material," he said.

"The state government is giving power looms under various social welfare schemes. But the beneficiaries are not weavers and are selling the machines. Traditional handlooms require more physical energy and time than a powerloom. But power looms cannot run when there is no electricity," he pointed out.

Ramesh AV started the NGO, Khanaweaves, a few months ago and promotes the fabric on social media platforms. Explaining why the demand has come down, he said the silk thread used in the traditional khana looms requires an investment of at least Rs 10,000. "In a handloom, weavers are paid Rs 33 for 20 inches. In a powerloom, they are paid Rs 6. While in a handloom, it takes three to seven days to weave 21 metres of khana, in a powerloom, 30 metres can be woven in a day," Ramesh said. Power looms use polyester threads which reduce their cost to just Rs 3,000 as compared to Rs 10,000 for the silk thread in the traditional loom. Khanaweaves helped sell products worth Rs 10 lakh between March and June this year. The weavers are being given bonds, which will fetch them good returns after some years, Ramesh added.

Bineesh Kodiyeri walks out of Bengaluru prison

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

EXACTLY a year after he was arrested by the Directorate of Enforcement, Bengaluru Zone, under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002, Bineesh Kodiyeri on Saturday walked out of prison after he was granted bail by the Karnataka High Court on Thursday. Bineesh is the son of Kerala CPI(M) leader Kodiyeri Balakrishnan. He was lodged in judicial custody at the Bengaluru Central Prison in Par-apanna Agrahara since his arrest last year.

The ED had arrested Bineesh on October 29 last year under the PMLA, after his name surfaced during the interrogation of drug accused Mohammed Anoop, who was himself arrested in August the same year by the NCB, Bengaluru zone under the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985. The ED, on December 26, 2020, had filed the prosecution complaint against Bineesh, Anoop and Rijesh under the PMLA.

WUHAN VIRUS LEAK: G-20 LEADERS MUST FIX ONUS

It is fall season and at 20 degrees, Rome can be glorious. Over the weekend, leaders of the world's 20 richest countries are meeting at the ginormous La Nuvola Convention Centre — 26,000 square metres, 8,000 seats, distributed over three floors — to wax eloquent on what can be done to make the world a better place.

On the G20 agenda is 'Sustainable Development' and 'Climate Change and the Environment'. US President Joe Biden will probably repurpose the green chapters of Build Back Better as a template to protect the world from climate change. Xi Jinping will reassert emission targets, promise that China will stop using coal at home but will be mum about funding coal projects abroad. Expect some more of the same.

What will come of the G20 summit (and indeed the #COP26 summit in Glasgow) is an open question — expect a lot of verbiage, promises and pronouncements. It may be instructive to seek answers on outcomes post the Riyadh 2020 and Osaka 2019 summits. As for #COP26, the history of COP summits at Berlin, Kyoto, Bali, Durban, Copenhagen and Paris provides valuable clues.

The past is frequently the prologue in geopolitics. What is shocking but not surprising — given the state of pusillanimous global leadership — is that the G20 Summit has not found reason to find space to discuss and define accountability for the Wuhan virus leak. The world deserves answers on how it happened and who is responsible for the leak. Beyond one motherhood session on public health, tagged to one on the global economy, there is no time devoted to the question.

This November makes it two years since three scientists in a lab in Hubei sought specialised medical treatment for their infections. Effectively, it's two years since the COVID19 virus wrecked the definition of the phrase normal as it ravaged lives and livelihoods. In these two years, over 245 million found themselves breathless and nearly 5 million have lost their lives. Millions of others have lost their livelihood and as the World Bank estimates between 119 and 124 million people have been pushed into extreme poverty and millions of others are hanging between gloom and doom.

What's worse is China continues to be opaque — almost in serial major ports have been shut down following outbreaks. This week, the Hubei and Beijing marathons were cancelled following a surge of Delta outbreaks in 11 provinces. Does the world know the extent of the surge and how it could impact trade and travel. The history of G20 since it was founded in 1999 is chequered — often the silence on issues, from human rights to sponsorship of terrorism, is louder than the words spoken from the podium. It is perhaps its track record which triggers mocking — as the ratification club and even as G-Zero.

Data from the IMF and World Bank reveal every member of the G20 took a hit except, yes, China. Even as every other country reported contraction, China turned in positive growth and added over $400 billion to its GDP in 2020. Data shows all the other 19 countries — including the richest and the most powerful — took a hit of over $2.5 trillion in just one year. The devastation continues and the spiralling cost of addressing the issues has upended the definitions of debt and deficit.

The question that must haunt the G20 forum and the leaders is how credible will their words about the future be if they do not make the effort to interrogate the cause of the biggest pandemic of the past 100 years. By its own estimation, the G20 is not a small fly on the geopolitical landscape. "Its members account for more than 80% of world GDP, 75% of global trade and 60% of the population of the planet."

Yet, the 'Troika' (Saudi Arabia, Italy and Indonesia) shepherding the G20 Summit of 2021 at Rome, which is the first in-person meet in the post-vaccine world, has chosen not to bring on board even the question! And imagine, this is under the presidency of Italy, one of the worst-hit nations. It would seem human suffering and economic hardship is not on the radar of the 20 most powerful nations.

The G20 leaders may try to weave a fig leaf out of the setting up of a new panel to trace the origins of COVID19 virus. But the panel faces a trust deficit as questions are being raised about members who were part of the much criticised previous panel. The earlier panel is infamous for producing just four pages on the possibility of a lab accident causing the leak in a 300-plus page report. What's worse is the politics. The 'system' now seeks to 're-elect' the current WHO director general Tedros A Ghebreyesus unopposed despite a series of blunders — for instance, the WHO claiming in January 2020 that there was no 'clear evidence of human transmission'.

It is not just the integrity of WHO which is at stake here. The G20 comprises large functioning democracies — barring the known and notable exceptions. Across these democracies, there is a silent majority which wants to know the truth and believes the world was deceived. The leaders of G20 cannot and must not dodge the obligation to fix the onus of how the virus leaked out.

The leaders of G20 must be mindful that the evil from the past lives on and will haunt public faith in elected governments. The legitimacy of those who loudly propound the virtues of free will and rule of law is on trial.

WEEP FOR THE WOMEN IN AFGHANISTAN

POINT OF VIEW

T J S GEORGE

THE greatest cookery advice came from, who else, the Chinese. It said: "Excess marks the amateur; subtlety signals the master chef. No ingredient must yield to another. Each should stand out proud and glorious."

Distilled wisdom, that's what this is. Food cooked on this principle can only be divine. The validity of the wisdom extends beyond the kitchen. All human activity is subject to the dictum, "subtlety signals the master." When that ingredient goes missing, any human activity tends to become gross. It's like charity donations: Those made with public fanfare are a world apart from those made silently.

This is a game into which ideologically driven teams jump with zeal. Former Pakistani cricketer Waqar Younis recently praised team player Mohammed Rizwan for performing namaz when surrounded by Hindus. What a petty mind. As petty as Imran Khan's. This cricketer rose to the Prime Ministership of Pakistan, but his mind has remained piffling, spiteful. He described India-Pakistan matches as jihad. These are men who can see nothing without the communal spectacles they wear. They are a shame even to their religion, which has a nobler history than they care to admit.

Originally, jihad was a word that denoted an individual's effort for spiritual self-perfection. Later, it began to be interpreted as a spiritual struggle for propagation and defence of Islam. Soon enough that began to mean a holy war for spreading religion.

To the leaders who communalise everything, it was the start of a new kind of game. To the victims it was something else. Consider the fate of women in Afghanistan. This is a country usually described as the worst place for women. The ruling Taliban made it worse. In 1996, it decreed that all women were banned from employment. Its declared aim was to create "a secure environment where the chasteness and dignity of women may once again be sacrosanct". What followed was a life in purdah for women based on the Pash-tunwali beliefs. One of history's great ironies.

The Taliban belief that "the face of a woman is a source of corruption" led to women having to wear the burqa at all times in public. Women were not allowed to be treated by male doctors unless accompanied by a male chaperone. They faced public flogging and execution for violations of Taliban laws. Amnesty International reported that 80 per cent of Afghan marriages were forced.

Other rules introduced for women told their own tale. Women should not wear high-heeled shoes as no man should hear a woman's footsteps lest it excites him; women should not speak loudly as no stranger should hear a woman's voice; all ground and first-floor residential windows should be painted over or screened to prevent women from being visible from the street; displaying pictures of females in newspapers, books, shops or homes was barred; women's presence in radio television or at public gatherings of any kind was banned. In Kabul's largest state-run orphanage, the female staff was dismissed and the 400 girls living in the institution were locked inside with no scope for recreation. Bus services were segregated to prevent men and women travelling in the same vehicle. In 1998, a researcher who travelled to Kabul said it had become a city of beggars filled with "women who had once been teachers and nurses, now moving in the streets like ghosts under their enveloping burqas, selling every possession and begging so that they can feed their children." Mullah Razzaq, Governor of Herat, issued orders prohibiting women from passing by his office "for fear of their distracting nature".

Taliban chiefs themselves must have understood their hypocrisy. A leader of the new Taliban regime in Kabul actually called upon women to join the Government. But the ban on the country's beauty salons remained. Cosmetics such as nail polish and make-up remained prohibited.

The psychology displayed by this

Governor says it all. If men are distracted by women, it's the women's fault. If a man attacks a woman, it's the woman's fault. A 1998 survey found that 97 per cent of women showed signs of serious depression while 71 per cent reported a decline in their physical well-being. Taliban chiefs themselves must have understood their hypocrisy. A leader of the new Taliban regime in Kabul actually called upon women to join the Government. But the ban on the country's beauty salons remained. Cosmetics such as nail polish and make-up remained prohibited. Place names that included the word "women" were modified. Women were, of course, banned from participating in sports or entering a sports club. In 1996, a woman had the tip of her thumb cut off for wearing nail varnish.

Did the Chinese say, excess marks the amateur? They will be lucky if the Taliban does not take over their country. If they ever do, the Chinese will learn that there is no such thing as excess.

WATERSHED MOMENT IN INDIAN PREMIER LEAGUE

Managing Partner with D and P Advisory

WHAT we saw with the bidding for the two new Indian Premier League (IPL) teams is something which would be etched in the history of Indian sports and world cricket for the next few decades. The amount being paid is astronomical and the fact that one of the winning bidders is a global private equity firm with immense experience and knowledge in investing and owning sports assets is just confirming the fact that IPL is one of the fastest growing sports leagues (not just cricket league) in the world, if not the fastest.

We as a team in D and P Advisory have been analysing IPL and valuing the brand IPL and the brands of the franchisees for the last eight years. Post 2020 IPL season, our assessment of the value of an IPL franchisee was anywhere between $250 million to $450 million depending on which team you are talking about (with the top teams being closer to $450 million and the ones at the bottom of the table being closer to $250 million). This was validated by the Red Bird and Rajasthan Royals transaction. RPSG Group's bid of circa USD 1 billion was an outlier when compared to other bids as it was higher by almost 30 per cent than the second highest bid. However, CVC Capital's bid of $750 million was much closer to all other losing bids, making it more reasonable to use as a benchmark. This new benchmark or $750 million is almost 65% higher compared to the $450 million value.

Any asset that is not easily available (supply constraint, etc.) could always have a significant premium attached when compared to value based on cashflows or any other traditional valuation methodologies. The 65% up mark is still significantly high even after considering any such premium. This new benchmark, hence, comes with an expectation that the cashflows available to the teams would increase significantly going forward. The biggest contributor being central pool that is distributed by BCCI from its earnings from IPL (broadcast revenue, title sponsorship fees, etc.).

Hence, the new valuation benchmark could suggest the following — a) higher broadcasting rights fees on a per match basis, b) higher title sponsorship fees

Post 2020 IPL season, our assessment of the value of an IPL franchisee was anywhere between $250 million to $450 million depending on which team you are talking about (with the top teams being closer to $450 million and the ones at the bottom of the table being closer to $250 million).

on a per match basis, c) number of matches per team being more than 14 per season in the future, d) franchisees' ability to earn higher sponsorship fees and e) franchisees' ability to crack the crystal maze called 'merchandising'.

While the first three are something under the BCCI control, the last two are something the franchisees should work on to justify the new benchmark. While BCCI has done its job with aplomb, it will be interesting to see how the franchisees do their bit. The third point in the list above will be very critical to take the league to the next level and put our very own IPL right next to the biggest sporting leagues in the world. However, this is not easy as this depends on availability of larger window to host matches, availability of foreign players, etc.

Now if you look at the broadcasting rights, which is the biggest contributor to the IPL value and the franchisees, IPL at USD 9 million per match (based on 2017 bid) is right up there when compared to other sporting leagues. It is just behind English Premier League (which is almost 30% higher compared to IPL) and a fair distance behind National Football League (NFL) (which is almost half of NFL).

But with advertisement revenue growing at a very healthy rate (over the last five years) and new age media companies' (the OTT platforms) hunger for good content, the broadcasting rights when it comes for renewal next year could see a huge jump. This could very well take IPL ahead of EPL on a per match basis.

But some points that we should keep in mind when comparing IPL with other global sports league is that IPL is a two-month affair right now where as other large leagues play throughout the year and have overcome the challenges of viewer fatigue, etc. Other leagues host multiple matches simultaneously (resulting in split viewership) whereas IPL is largely one match at a time. If IPL overcomes these challenges, it will be a feast to a cricket fan and will be a cash cow to the investors and other stakeholders of IPL.

This is definitely a watershed moment in IPL!!

Community kitchens for all

Chief Justice of India N V Ramana is right in saying that the Union of India should speedily coordinate with the State Governments and UTs on setting up of community kitchens everywhere in India, to provide cheap or free nutritious food as a service to the general public usually run by religious institutions or by the state. My suggestion is to simultaneously set up collection-centres of over-prepared or waste food from homes and supply chains, in every lane and by-lane. In turn, the poor may collect food from these centers freely (without obligations). This can avoid about 7 tonnes of food wastage per year in India (or, avoid 50 kgs per capita per year food wastage).

Chennai's AQI alarming

With reference to 'For a breath of fresh air in Chennai' (TNIE, Editorial, Oct 30) The Tamil Nadu capital will be one of the cities in India with air-pollution levels beyond the threshold once it is winter. However, it is inexplicable and rather baffling that this year, the city is draped with smog already — even before the onset of monsoon in full swing and Deepavali. It is reported that all the seven Continuous Ambient Air Quality Monitoring Stations (CAAQMS) in Chennai show that the Chennai-ites are faced with the compulsion of breathing unhealthy and polluted air which, in some parts of the city, registering an AQI (Air Quality Index) as high as 202 with the particular matter hovering less than 2.5 microns (PM2.5). Taking a cue from the Delhi model, Chennai can invest in low-cost monitors.

Cruelty personified

It was shocking to learn that the principal of a school in Uttar Pradesh's Mirzapur district punished a 5-year-old boy, studying in Class 2, by dangling him upside down from the first floor of the school building. The student's fault? He ate 'gol gappas' at a stall outside the school without informing the teacher! Instances of cruelty inflicted on students have been on the increase of late. Somehow or the other, the errant teachers escape the net, which is probably why such incidents keep occurring with unfailing regularity. Condign punishment alone would prove a deterrent. The teachers should be taught how to enforce discipline without being cruel.

Stop imprudent lending

Irrational lending has always been there in the country at the instance of the successive governments at the Centre. At least with the advent of economic liberalisation, prudence has ceased to be so much a watchword in lending as it used to be. Only the reporting of NPAs got a little improved with banks' computerisation and RBI's applying brakes on liberal restructuring, placing banks under Prompt Corrective Action (PCA), etc. Despite ever mounting bad debts, the nation doesn't seem to have learnt a lesson. That's the anxiety. And it's not just the bank privatisation plan that's at stake (Editorial, 'As credit cycle takes off...', Oct 30), but more than that the scarce public resources belonging to the taxpayers and depositors.

Trinamool's foray in Goa

Trinamool Congress supremo Mamata Banerjee is trying desperately to prove her party to be an alternative to the NDA, is feverishly attempting to establish in Goa, while she had no compunction to call other parties like the BJP as outsiders in West Bengal, in the recently held elections in the state. The opportunistic approach by Mamata Banerjee can be interpreted as yet another avatar, comparable to AAP, as Arvind Kejriwal too is engaged in a great deal of holy talk and nationalist approach in Uttar Pradesh, with an eye on approaching elections in the state. No backend talks with Congress, new outfit plan intact: Amarinder

Former Punjab CM says time for rapprochement over as Cong weighs options for his exit

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi/Chandigarh

AMID reports of worried Congress seeking to open back-channel talks with Amarinder Singh, the former Punjab chief minister on Saturday shut all doors of reconciliation saying the time for rapprochement is over. He said he will soon launch his own party to contest the assembly elections in alliance with the BJP and breakaway Akali factions.

"Reports of backend discussions with Congress are incorrect. The time for rapprochement is over. The decision to part ways with party was taken after much thought and is final. I'm grateful to Sonia Gandhi for her support but will not stay in Congress now," Amarinder's media adviser Raveen Thukral tweeted, quoting him.

"I will soon launch my own party and will hold talks for seat-sharing with BJP, breakaway Akali factions & others for Punjab elections once farmers' issue is resolved. I want to build strong collective force in interest of Punjab and its farmers," he said in another tweet.

Amarinder is in Delhi and waiting for a meeting with Union Home Minister Amit Shah to discuss the farmer agitation and a favourable solution.

Senior Congress leaders are learnt to have held backend discussions to persuade the former CM to stay in the party and are also reportedly trying to convince the leadership to retain him. They fear that he could field disgruntled leaders who are denied party ticket against the party's official candidates, which will lead to division of Congress votes.

A Congress leader said the party is weighing all options in case of Amarinder 'formally' leaving or playing a 'spoilsport' while remaining in the Congress.

On the other hand, sources said after discussions with the state leaders and government, the central leadership seems to have concluded that rumours of some MLAs or leaders going with Amarinder were baseless.

Farm law concessions for tie-up with Captain?

MANISH ANAND @ New Delhi

AMID growing likelihood of Amarinder Singh throwing in his hat in the electoral arena of Punjab in tie-up with the BJP, there's anticipation that the former Congress veteran may get a face-saver on his high voltage position regarding farm agitation.

BJP leaders seem warmed up to the prospects of the former Punjab CM floating own political outfit, which could allow the saffron party a breathing space in Punjab, where it is struggling to launch its election campaign.

"There will definitely be some steps to calm down the farm agitation in the next few weeks. Certain aspects are being discussed at the top level within the government," said a senior BJP leader.

Besides the extension of the suspension of the farm laws beyond 18 months, there's a likelihood of the NDA government coming out with additional measures to assuage the agitated farmers.

Though the farm laws will not be revoked and the reform measures will strongly be backed, some window will be created to allow Amarinder to work on Jat Sikh-Hindu combination in the poll-bound state, said a senior leader.

The national executive meeting of the BJP's farmer wing on Saturday was cancelled. While the party counts on measures taken by the Centre in favour of small farmers, it is seen struggling in western Uttar Pradesh and Punjab due to a negative perception resulting from enactment of the three contentious farm laws.

The BJP's poll campaign has so far remained a non-starter in Punjab, but the top functionaries of the saffron party are learnt to be regularly meeting to fine-tune the strategy.

Cong poll commitments are guaranteed: Rahul in Goa

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

SETTING OFF the Congress's poll campaign in Goa, where Assembly elections are due early next year, party leader Rahul Gandhi on Saturday asserted that the assurances that his party gives in its election manifesto is not just a commitment but a 'guarantee'.

Addressing the members of the fishermen community in South Goa following his arrival in the state for his day-long visit, he also alleged that while the BJP indulges in hatred and divides people, the Congress spreads love and affection as it believes in uniting people and taking them forward.

"I want to make very clear what is the difference between the BJP and the Congress is. The Congress believes in uniting India's people and taking them forward. For us, every single Indian has the right to be given the space that he requires," he said addressing the gathering.

Congress's response to the hatred spread by BJP is love and affection, he said.

"So, wherever they spread anger hatred and division, we spread love and affection," he added.

"I am not here to waste your time or my time. Just as your time is important, my time is also important. The commitment that we will make to you in manifesto is not just a commitment but a guarantee," he added.

Talking about the assurances made by the Congress, he said, "My credibility is important to me. Unlike many other leaders, when I say something here, I will make sure it happens." "If I come here I say to you that we will not allow coal hub and I don't do it, next time I come here I will have no credibility," he said in his address to the fishermen, who are opposing the project of double tracking of South Western Railway as they allege that it is an attempt to turn the state into a coal hub.

Tejasvi's takes 'tourism' jibe

Panaji: BJP MP and the party's Yuva Morcha national president Tejasvi Surya on Saturday said Congress leader Rahul Gandhi and Trinamool Congress supremo Mamata Banerjee were visiting Goa ahead of the upcoming Assembly polls as part of 'political tourism'.

Addressing a press conference here, Surya said despite the entry of TMC and Aam Aadmi Party into the state, the people knew the ruling BJP was a 'tried and tested model of politics'. "People have reposed their trust in the BJP twice (2012 and 2017). I can assure you none of these political tourists will be able to dent the BJP's popularity in Goa. Our party will come to power for a third term (in 2022) here," Surya said.

Project to make women aware of legal rights

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

WITH an aim to impart practical knowledge about legal rights and remedies provided under various women related laws, the National Commission for Women has launched a pan-India legal awareness programme for women.

The programme launched in collaboration with the National Legal Services Authority is targeted at making women ready "to face the challenges in real life situations".

Rekha Sharma, NCW chairperson pointed out that a large section of the society is still unaware about the forms of aids that are available to them. "We seek to rectify this situation with one step at a time or in this case with one camp at a time covering all the districts in the country," she said.

The programme aims to cover all states through regular sessions to make women aware of the various machineries of the justice delivery system available for redressal of their grievances. The project will sensitise women and girls about their rights as provided under the various laws including the Indian Penal Code. It will also make them aware of the procedure of approaching and utilising various channels available for the redressal of grievances, such as police, judiciary and executive.

Anti-Covid drug: 2 firms move regulator

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @ New Delhi

HOPES have risen for the approval of the first Covid-19 antiviral drug in India with two drug makers reaching the drug regulator, the Central Drugs Standard Control Organisation (CDSCO), with phase 3 clinical trial data of molnupiravir and seeking marketing authorisation for the pill. Being called very promising in treating the coronavirus infection, the drug reportedly clears viral infection in about five days in mainly mild cases, preventing many people from progressing to a severe disease state. "The Indian companies have submitted data from the phase 3 clinical trials of the drug and the subject expert committee on Covid-19 is soon going to consider their applications," a senior official part of the CDSCO told TNS.

In India, five companies had entered into voluntary licensing agreements to produce generic versions of this drug. The antiviral drug is also being evaluated by the US FDA for its effectiveness and safety and an advisory committee of the FDA is set to meet next month to take up Merck and Ridgeback's request for granting emergency use authorisation for molnupiravir to treat mild to moderate Covid-19.

Merck, the original US-based developer of the oral broad spectrum antiviral drug, had reported this month that the drug halved the rate of hospitalisations and deaths in high-risk Covid patients who took it soon after infection in a large clinical trial. Molnupiravir, like remdesivir, is a nucleoside analogue, which means it mimics some of the building blocks of RNA. This antiviral gets incorporated into burgeoning RNA strands and, once inside, starts killing the virus.

ANTI-CONVERSION LAW, POPULATION POLICY NEEDED, SUGGESTS HOSABALE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Hubballi

OPPOSING forced conversions, RSS General Secretary Dattatreya Hosabale on Saturday said that it is not right to increase the numbers through fraud or allurement. "This cannot be accepted," Hosabale told the media at the conclusion of the three-day national executive meeting of the Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh here.

On the Sangh's stand on the anti-conversion law, Hosabale said, "Why are people opposing it? There are more than 20 states which have passed the Bill in the country, including a few ruled by the Congress."

He said, "Conversions should be stopped and those who have converted should declare that they are converted.

RSS General Secretary Dattatreya Hosabale (right) speaks to reporters in Dharwad on Saturday

There are people who get converted and do not disclose it. They take double benefits."

On the population policy, he said that every country should have a population policy that is applicable to all. He also said the Sangh passed a resolution on it a few years ago. "The country should have a population policy with incentives and disincentives as a way ahead to gain population stability. Of course, some states like Rajasthan have taken some steps... but it should be applied universally across the nation," he added. "More importantly, a scientific assessment should be done on the population that could be maintained in the available landmass and natural resources in the country. After studying all these factors a proper population policy needs to be framed," he said. On implementing the Uniform Civil Code, he said that the present government has made a commitment on the floor of Parliament. "Moreover, the directive principles of the Constitution enshrine the UCC and it is needed to bring it into force today or tomorrow. But it is a political decision and the government would decide on the timing," he added. Taking an exception to a few states banning firecrackers during Deepavali, Hosabale said such steps should be taken at the beginning of the year and not when the festival is around. "Banning crackers just ahead of the festival will lead to a major loss to manufacturers and traders," he said.

Army focuses on eastern sector, scales up defences

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

EVEN as the Indian Army and Chinese PLA remain locked in a standoff in eastern Ladakh, the area of the 'Rest of Arunachal Pradesh (RALP)' is gaining attention. Sources in the Army said India is boosting its road infrastructure and is reorienting its forces as China has scaled up infrastructure and deployment on its side.

Arunachal Pradesh is generally divided into Kameng area on the west and Rest of Arunachal Pradesh.

"The RALP is an area of concern for us," said an Army source. "We have raised our deployment in the RALP."

"Till 2010 there was only one Army division for the entire RALP, but now a major deployment of the 3 Corps is responsible for the LAC," he said, adding the Chinese have built roads all across.

The government has pushed the Border Roads Organisation to focus in the state. One of the biggest projects to connect the remote locations of Arunachal Pradesh is in process with Detailed Project Reports finalised. This will be the Trans-Arunachal highway that was delayed due to land compensation. This will be one of the toughest and biggest border road projects in independent India, Union Minister Kiren Rijiju has said. Sources said for better integration of the border population and faster connectivity, two tunnels have been planned under Brahmaputra. The DPR for one of them is complete.

The Engineer Task Force of the exclusive Mountain Strike Corps (17 Corps) is also busy developing the road infrastructure as they have specialised equipment to continue work in the harsh terrain. There has also been reorientation of the forces towards the LAC since peace prevails in the areas of the Northeast, sources said.

The RALP has gained attention since Chinese PLA mobilised its reserve troops to the training areas after the standoff began in eastern Ladakh.

Lt General MK Pandey, Commander in Chief, Eastern Command recently said, "We have observed a build-up by China close to LAC essentially in terms of habitat. That has led to a proportionate deployment of troops."

The Chinese have become aggressive, and have increased patrolling and frequency of the visits of their senior commanders, said a source.

The Eastern Command handles the 1,346 km long LAC, including areas in Sikkim and Arunachal Pradesh. This command has three corps - 33 Corps (Sikkim), 4 Corps (Kameng Sector) and 3 Corps (Rest of Arunachal Pradesh) to handle the LAC.

Lalu eager for renewed national role

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

RASHTRIYA JANATA DAL (RJD) chief Lalu Prasad Yadav appears eager to play a key role in national politics after the results of Bihar's by-elections are declared on November 2. Back in active politics three years after serving jail terms in the fodder scam cases, he has addressed many rallies in the run-up to two by-elections, which went to polling on Saturday.

Bihar election watchers say Lalu will now get cracking on bringing opposition parties together on one platform against the BJP government.

"For this all-India spanning political role, sahab (as Lalu is called by his party leaders) has started working on a plan of action. His statesman-like vision and outlook will be clearer soon after the results of the by-elections are announced on November 2," said a senior RJD party leader. Recently when asked about his role in national politics, Lalu said: "My role will be in putting the opposition parties in the central government. I will try to unite the opposition."

He has lambasted the BJP-led Centre saying the voices of the poor are suppressed and the interests of farmers have been crushed.

When asked about the leadership question in the Opposition, he replied, "Everything will happen... We will sit together and decide the leadership question."

As a first step towards the national leadership role, Lalu is likely to raise three key issues: the caste census for OBCs, new farm laws and inflation. He is expected to campaign in the Uttar Pradesh assembly elections against the BJP. The RJD's state unit is working to either go in for alliance with the Samajwadi Party or support it in the polls.

The NDA is also reportedly concerned about Lalu's plans. National general secretary of BJP OBC Morcha Dr Nikhil Anand has said Lalu will have limited impact nationally.

One BJP, 6 BSP MLAs join SP; Yadav blasts Yogi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Lucknow

SEVEN legislators — one from the BJP and six suspended from the BSP — joined the Samajwadi Party (SP) in Uttar Pradesh on Saturday in the presence of its chief Akhilesh Yadav, who hit out at Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath and also claimed the BJP and the Congress “are the same”.

“The people of the state are so agitated that the BJP will be wiped out in the coming days and Bhajpa pariwar (BJP family) will appear as Bhaagta Pariwar (runaway family),” the SP chief said here while taunting the ruling party over its MLA Rakesh Rathore’s desertion and indicating that some others from the BJP were also in touch with him in the poll-bound state.

Those who joined the SP - BJP MLA from Sitapur Rakesh Rathore and BSP rebels Aslam Raini (Shrawati), Sushma Patel (Madiyahan), Aslam Ali (Hapur), Hakim Lal Bind (Handia), Muftaba Siddiqui (Phoolpur) and Hargovind Bhargava (Sidhauli) - expressed their resolve to make Akhilesh Yadav the chief minister again in the coming elections.

Taking to Twitter, Yadav claimed that the BJP will not get enough ticket-aspirants “even if it declares 403 chief ministers” as the party is starting at defeat in the assembly polls. The UP Assembly’s strength is 403.

Earlier this year, an audio clip purportedly of Rathore criticising Prime Minister Narendra Modi for asking people to clap and clang bells and plates during the COVID-19 pandemic had gone viral on social media, after which he was asked by the party leadership to explain his alleged anti-party activities.

The BSP rebels who joined the SP were suspended by Mayawati after they had opposed the nomination of the party’s official candidate Ramji Gautam for Rajya Sabha in October 2020. They had reportedly met Akhilesh Yadav earlier this year and had hinted that they may switch sides soon. Yadav also took a swipe at Union Home Minister Amit Shah for saying that 90 per cent works of the BJP manifesto have been completed and the 10 per cent remaining will be taken up in the next few months.

Uttarakhand HC sets aside CAT order on case transfer

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Dehradun

THE Uttarakhand High Court has set aside an order by chairman of Central Administrative Tribunal (CAT) which transferred the case of Magsaysay awardee 2002 batch Indian Forest Service officer Sanjiv Chaturvedi to Delhi bench of the tribunal.

The division bench of Chief Justice R S Chauhan and N S Dhanik while setting aside the order by CAT chairman L Narasimha Reddy stated that the reasoning contained in the order dated December 4, 2020 is “legally unsustainable”.

Chaturvedi is currently posted as chief conservator of forests in the research wing of Uttarakhand forest department in Haldwani.

The court said: “Since the petitioner is presently posted as Chief Conservator of Forest (Working Plan), Haldwani, District Nainital, Uttarakhand, on every date of hearing, it is the petitioner who would be required to travel from Haldwani to New Delhi. His travelling would not only entail financial expenditure, but also require time and energy”.

The bench added, “It will also necessitate that the petitioner should take leave from his work, thereby, preventing him from discharging his official duties. Travelling between such long distances will also affect his physical health, and psychological makeup”.

Don’t dial wrong number, Shah in U’khand

Targets Congress, ex-CM Rawat over appeasement of minorities, lack of development; seeks ‘one more chance’

VINEET UPADHYAY @ Dehradun

LAUNCHING the BJP’s campaign for the Uttarakhand assembly elections early next year, union home minister Amit Shah targeted the Congress and former chief minister Harish Rawat for “appeasing” minorities and the lack of development in the state.

“I recall once I arrived in the state when there was a Congress government here and I was national president of my party. It was Friday and suddenly our vehicle was stopped and I was told that national highway was closed for Friday namaz. Those indulging in such kind of appeasement cannot do anything for the development of this devbhoomi,” Shah said on Saturday at the launch of the Chief Minister Ghanshyam Ji Yojana, aimed at supplying quality fodder at ₹2 per kg to households with cattle. Muslim voters comprise 10-15% of voters in Uttarakhand. Out of the total 70 Assembly seats, 22 seats from Haridwar and Udham Singh Nagar have 25-35% Muslim votes.

Shah urged the people of Uttarakhand to give the BJP another chance as much work was yet to be completed. “Give us one more chance so that we can reduce the gap between the rich and the poor. Trust us and we will transform Uttarakhand. I request not to take any wrong decision. Do not dial the wrong number, otherwise there will be a season of corruption again in Uttarakhand,” Shah said.

Shah said PM Narendra Modi will visit Kedarnath on November 5 to inaugurate an idol of Adi Shankaracharya.

“The Congress feared loss of its vote bank hence could not work for the development of the Char Dham. Rawatji (Harish Rawat) you can remain scared but we are not scared of anyone,” said Shah.

Mentioning multiple projects, including the Rishikesh-Karnprayag Railway Line, Shah said: “Our government has invested in projects worth ₹5,000 crore in the last five years. The Congress must tell the people what they had done when they were in power.”

Shah said the Congress becomes active only during the election season. “The Congress will just stage dharnas, do andolan and go to Rahul baba’s place to click pictures and tweet those. Development takes more concrete work than this.”

Mine kills officer, jawan near LoC

SRINAGAR: Two army personnel were killed and another was injured in a landmine explosion near a forward post along the Line of Control (LoC) in Rajouri district of Jammu and Kashmir on Saturday, officials said.

The army said the blast occurred when the troops were on an area domination patrol in Naushera sector. “On October 30, during an area domination patrol in Naushera sector, a mine blast occurred wherein two Indian Army soldiers suffered critical injuries and later succumbed to their injuries. Another soldier who received injuries was evacuated and is under treatment,” Jammubased defence PRO Lt Col Devender Anand said.

The Naushera sector comes under the Rajouri district which is part of the Pirpanjal region where an army operation has been going on for the last three weeks.

Officials said the blast took place in Kalal area of Naushera when the army team was on patrol duty as part of measures to check infiltration of terrorists from across the border. They said the area is dotted with landmines planted by the army as part of the counter-infiltration arrangement.

The defence PRO identified the deceased as Lieutenant Rishi Kumar and Sepoy Manjit, and said they were brave and extremely committed to the profession of soldiering and made the supreme sacrifice in the line of active duty.

Lieutenant Kumar is a resident of Begusarai in Bihar, while Sepoy Singh is a resident of Sirwala village of Bhatinda in Punjab.

“The nation and Indian Army shall forever remain indebted to the bravehearts for their supreme sacrifice,” the spokesperson said.

General Officer Commanding of the 16 Corps Lt Gen Manjinder Singh and other ranks saluted the bravehearts for their supreme sacrifice in the line of duty. PTI

Shillong Sikh group likely to move court against land takeover by state govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Guwahati

A Sikh organisation in Meghalaya is likely to move the court again as the state government has taken the possession of a piece of land despite the Meghalaya High Court and the National Commission for Minorities passing separate orders for status quo.

The Harijan Panchayat

Committee, which has for long been fighting the case, said it would soon meet and take a decision.

“We are in touch with our lawyers. We will meet soon and chalk out our future course of actions,” Gurjit Singh, who is the secretary of the committee, told this newspaper. The case has been pending in the high court for the past few years. Meghalaya Deputy Chief

Minister Prestone Tynsong had on Friday announced that the government had taken the possession of the land at Harijan Colony in Shillong after paying the premium of over ₹2 crore to the Syiem (king) of Myllem, the original owner of the land. Some 250 Sikh families have been settled at Harijan Colony, also known as Punjabi

Lane, for over 200 years. It is a prime location.

On March 31, a deed of lease was signed among the state government, the Syiem of Myllem and the Shillong Municipal Board. As per the pact, the leased premises, measuring 12,444.13 square metres, would be handed over to the government.

Paddy procurement from Dec 1 in Chhattisgarh

With an increase of 48,000 hectares in the area over which paddy is grown, leading to the augmented production during current kharif season, the Chhattisgarh government has increased the procurement limit from the last year’s 92 to 105 lakh metric tonnes (LMT) as a new target this year. The paddy procurement at Rs 2,500 per quintal is set to begin from December 1. During the last kharif season, the state had to struggle to make the use of the procured paddy and was left with 20.5 LMT as surplus. The state is known as the rice bowl of the country. The main crops are rice, maize, kodo-kutki and other small millets and pulses; oilseeds, such as groundnuts (peanuts).

Pak quietly lets Taliban envoys assume charge

Islamabad yet to recognise insurgent government, but has begun issuing visas to its 'diplomats'

ISLAMABAD

PAKISTAN has quietly allowed the Taliban-appointed 'diplomats' to take charge of the Afghan embassy and consulates in the country, a media report said on Saturday.

Although Pakistan does not recognise the Taliban as the legitimate government in Kabul, it still issued visas to the appointed 'diplomats'.

Sardar Muhammad Shokaib has started working as the first secretary in the Afghan embassy in Islamabad, while Hafiz Mohibullah, Mullah Ghulam Rasool and Mullah Muhammad Abbas have been assigned to the Peshawar, Quetta and Karachi consulates of Afghanistan, the Dawn newspaper reported.

Shokaib would effectively be the Afghan charge d'affaires in Islamabad.

The Afghan embassy here has been without an ambassador since July when the last envoy under the previous regime, Najibullah Alikhil, left because of controversy due to alleged abduction of his daughter Sil-sila Alikhil.

No details about Shokaib were shared but according to a report by Voice of America, he is an ethnic Pashtun from Zabul province who served in the Information and Cultural Department in southern Kandahar and was associated with a Taliban magazine.

He reportedly once worked as the Taliban spokesman under the name of Qari Yousaf Ahmadi and was arrested in Pakistan and later lived in Peshawar for several years. Pakistan's Foreign Office spokesman Asim Iftikhar tried to play down the new appointments by saying that it was an "administrative matter".

"With regard to appointment of new staff in the Afghan embassy, this is an administrative matter and is meant to enable the embassy to perform its functions, primarily the consular functions as you are aware there are millions of Afghan refugees in Pakistan and there are visa issues as well," he said.

Pakistan has been trying to convince the world to diplomatically engage with the Taliban after they establish their de-facto control on Afghanistan. PTI

TLP PROTESTS

Pakistan police shocked over Islamists' use of sub-machine gun

ISLAMABAD

SECURITY officials in Pakistan are shocked after it emerged that members of the banned Tehreek-i-Labbaik Pakistan party reportedly used sub-machine guns (SMGs) against policemen during anti-government protests, prompting the authorities to conclude that the headline Islamists had been turned into a "militant group", a report said on Saturday.

A mobile phone footage, which showed members of the party firing 80 rounds of SMGs at policemen in Kamoke, in Pakistan's Punjab province, on Thursday, was presented during a high-level security meeting, the Dawn newspaper reported.

Other incidents of attacks were also recorded, which showed two policemen succumbing to bullet wounds, while 16 others sustaining injuries from the shots fired by TLP members, the report said.

"It has shocked police high-ups from where the TLP was getting weapons and training to use them," the police official was quoted as saying by the newspaper.

He added that all participants of the high-level security meeting had reached the conclusion that the TLP had been turned into a 'militant group' and the government must review its policy seriously towards this outfit, the report said.

On Saturday, thousands of TLP workers were camped in Wazirabad, after talks between the government and the party leadership remained inconclusive, the Express Tribune reported. Meanwhile, Minister of Religious Affairs and Inter-faith Harmony Pir Noor-ul-Haq Qadri said on Saturday that a 12-member panel was formed to act as a negotiator between the Pakistan government and TLP, according to a report on Geo News.

The minister said religious leaders from across the country met Prime Minister Imran Khan and expressed their resolve to solve the issue peacefully, the report said. PTI

G20 LEADERS ENDORSE GLOBAL MINIMUM TAX

ROME

LEADERS of G20 countries have formally endorsed the global agreement for a minimum 15 per cent corporate tax, US Treasury Secretary Janet Yellen said on Saturday, hailing it as a "historic" step.

"Today, every G20 head of state endorsed an historic agreement on new international tax rules, including a global minimum tax that will end the damaging race to the bottom on corporate taxation," she said.

Some 136 countries representing more than 90 per cent of global GDP have signed a OECD-brokered deal to more fairly tax multinational companies and enact a minimum tax on global corporations of 15 per cent.

The mini-revolution, first mooted in 2017 and given a boost through the support of US President Joe Biden, is due to come into effect in 2023 — but the deadline could slip, partly due to resistance among US lawmakers.

The first pillar of the reform, which involves taxing companies where they made their profits, not just where they are headquartered, has run into fierce opposition in the US Congress.

The move seeks to end tax optimisation, in which global corporations — including big US tech firms like Apple and Google parent Alphabet — shelter profits in countries with low-tax systems.

US internet giants such as Google, Amazon, Facebook and Apple — experts in basing themselves in low-tax countries to minimise their tax bills — are particular targets of the new global regulation.

It is seen as an attempt to address the ways globalisation and digitalisation have changed the world economy. It would allow countries to tax some of the earnings of companies located elsewhere that make money through online retailing, web advertising and other activities.

US President Joe Biden has been one of the driving forces behind the deal as governments around the world seek to boost revenue amid the pandemic. G20 finance ministers gave their backing to the tax overhaul in July. The deal was announced by the Paris-based Organization for Cooperation and Economic Development, which hosted the talks that led to it. The OECD said the minimum tax would reap some $150 billion for governments. AFP

Joe Biden, European allies discuss Iran threat

ROME

THE leaders of the United States, Germany, France and Britain on Saturday expressed their "grave and growing concern" at Iran's nuclear activities, after a meeting on the sidelines of the G20 summit.

"We are convinced that it remains possible to quickly reach and implement an understanding on return to full compliance," they said in a joint statement.

Earlier this week, Tehran said it would resume talks with world powers in November on reviving the 2015 Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action on Iran's nuclear programme, following a five-month gap.

Iran held six rounds of indirect negotiations in Vienna with President Joe Biden's administration on returning to the agreement, but talks went on hiatus in June as a new hardline government took office in Tehran.

After the meeting in Rome, US President Joe Biden, French President Emmanuel Macron,

British Prime Minister Boris Johnson, French President Emmanuel Macron, German Chancellor Angela Merkel, and US President Joe Biden at the G20 meet | AP

German Chancellor Angela Merkel and British Prime Minister Boris Johnson "agreed that continued Iranian nuclear advances and obstacles to the IAEA's work will jeopardise the possibility of a return to the JCPOA".

The International Atomic Energy Agency is supposed to monitor Iran's nuclear activities. In a joint statement, the leaders said they were determined "to ensure Iran can never develop or acquire a nuclear weapon".

They said they shared a "growing concern that, while Iran halted talks on a return to the JCPOA since June, it has accelerated the pace of provocative nuclear steps." AP

Macron meets Indonesia prez, seeks better ties

ROME

FRENCH President Emmanuel Macron and his Indonesian counterpart Joko Widodo on Saturday vowed to work toward a "true strategic partnership", France's presidency said, after Paris was locked out of a defence pact between the US, UK and Australia.

Since losing a major submarine deal with Canberra, which joined an AUKUS alliance to better counter China, France has sought solace in leading Southeast Asian nations for deeper strategic ties in the Pacific region. On the sidelines of the G20 summit in Rome, Widodo and Macron met and "decided to work on a true strategic partnership," said the French side. It would notably "cover the question of the ecological transition, of support for employment in Indonesia and the post-Covid revival", the French presidency added. AP

Queen in good form, assures British PM

London: Queen Elizabeth II is in "very good form" but she needs to follow medical advice to get some rest, British Prime Minister Boris Johnson said on Saturday. Johnson's comments come a day after Buckingham Palace announced that the 95-year-old monarch has been advised two weeks' rest during which she will undertake only light, desk-based duties. "I spoke to her Majesty this week and she's in very good form," Johnson said.

Disruption in supply chain hampers economic revival

Congestion at ports delays shipments, adds to cost, fuels inflation

SUNITHA NATTI

MOST of us have done it at least once. That is, hitting the reset button on the smartphone to shut it down and wipe out the virus. For better results, we've even tried deep clean or reboot, which restores factory settings, meaning the device is as good as new. Simple, really.

So, when Covid-19 struck last year, policymakers world over did pretty much the same thing. They hit the reset button, hoping, or rather praying, that lockdowns and subsequent lift offs will take things back to normalcy. In earnest, they even called it the Great Reset.

But the world economy isn't your ordinary phone, and what seemed as a gradual and gentle recovery process, now appears to be spitting out problems of inescapable proportions.

Foremost among the looming troubles is the global supply chain disruption, which could lead to an inventory recession, or slowdown global economic recovery. It appears, we cannot chicken out, and must face either one of the two. Worse, some even flagged doomsday scenarios, predicting price pressures morphing into stagflation, which then could throw the global economy off course. China's dramatic slowdown last quarter places such forecasts right at the dead centre.

Supply disrupted

Among other things, the pandemic has put world trade at risk. Moody's Analytics warned about 'dark clouds ahead' because several factors make overcoming the supply constraints challenging. The key culprits this time include labour, overstretched shipping lines, and rising raw material and logistics costs.

First, companies are facing shortages like labour, energy (remember coal shortages), and critical industrial components like computer chips for cars. Second, even if companies produce goods, shipping lines are so jammed that crossing an ocean from one end to another takes twice the pre-pandemic time or more. And lastly, even if goods make it in and out of shipping ports, some countries like the UK are facing a dire shortage of truck drivers delaying deliveries.

India is in the midst of an energy crisis — like many others in the world — primarily owing to shortage of coal. The situation has been exacerbated by the supply chain disruption resulting in high import costs. This has impacted both power as well as non-power consumers of coal.

N Venu, MD and CEO, ABB Power Products and Systems India Limited, recently said in an analyst meet that while electricity demand is expected to grow 8-8.5% in FY22, risk of a power crisis emanating from

TRADING IN TROUBLED WATER

- Labour shortage, overstretched shipping lines, rising raw material and logistics costs are some of the major roadblocks

- Electricity demand is expected to grow 8-8.5% in FY22, but risk of a power crisis emanating from coal shortages may dampen supply and hit industrial production

- Non-power sector consumers, including captive power plants (CPP), aluminium, steel, cement, sponge iron, chemical, paper etc, have been facing acute shortage of coal

- Auto manufacturers have been facing chip shortage, leading to a sharp production cuts in the recent past

- According to the OECD, higher commodity prices and global shipping costs are currently adding 1.5% to inflation across G20 nations and it could be up to 1.75% by December coal shortages may dampen supply and hit production at core industries, softening the pace of economic revival.

"High inventory build-up in our factories, mainly for our high demand products, due to the supply line crunch, deferment of revenue and high input costs impacted our cash flow," he said.

Non-power sector consumers, including captive power plants (CPP), aluminium, steel, cement, sponge iron, chemical, paper etc, have long been facing an acute shortage of coal as supply through rail mode was halted from most of the Coal India subsidiaries, decried The Coal Consumers Association of India in a letter to coal Secretary.

"Steadily rising global coal prices as well as expensive ocean freight rates have also rendered import of coal almost impossible for these consumers in order to make up for the lack of supply from indigenous sources," it said in the letter.

FMCG companies from Unilever to Nestle to Procter & Gamble grappling with supply difficulties have no choice but to jack up prices. But that's only part of the problem. Perhaps, as part of their civic duty, the companies are forewarning consumers about elevated price levels continuing next year citing a 'once-in-two-decades inflationary environment.'

"We've continued to see unprecedented levels of inflation in some of our key input materials. Palm oil and its derivatives, which are used in our skin cleansing and hair care categories, have seen prices climbing further," says Ritesh Tiwari, chief financial officer of Hindustan Unilever, in an analysts' meet.

Auto manufacturers have been facing acute chip shortage as has been witnessed by sharp product cuts by local manufacturers.

Recently, both Crisil Ratings and India Ratings cut down growth forecasts of India's passenger vehicle (PV) market amid deepening shortage of the semi-conductors which has forced India's largest carmaker Maruti Suzuki and others to significantly reduce their production level in recent months. While Crisil expects the PV market to grow 11-13% year-on-year in FY22 against the earlier forecast of 14-16%, India Ratings expects growth to moderate at 15-18% y-o-y during FY22 from the previous estimate of 18-22%.

Enormity of the situation

According to the OECD, higher commodity prices and global shipping costs are currently adding 1.5% to inflation across G20 nations. By December, it could be up by 1.75% and further up by 1% in 2022. Worryingly, OECD estimates that the drag from the pandemic and supply bottlenecks is unlikely to ease in 2021.

As it is, global output in mid-2021 was 3.5% lower than projected before the pandemic, translating to a shortfall of one year of output growth in normal times. Our own RBI, in its monthly bulletin last week, rang alarm bells noting that everywhere, resurgent demand was being choked by supply bottlenecks, placing global recovery at risk. In fact, supply chain disruptions seem to be feeding on one another, amplified simultaneously by decarbonisation drives and trade wars. "There is also the possibility of facing an inventory recession when the supply backlogs are eventually cleared," warned RBI.

Congestion at ports in the US, Europe and Asia have disrupted sailing schedules and equipment shortage, particularly in export-import countries and has created breaks in supply chains. The average cost of shipping a standard large container (a 40-foot-equivalent unit or FEU) is five times higher than a year ago. The average door-to-door shipping time for ocean freight has gone from 41 day a year ago to 70 days.

In October, the World Trade Organisation scaled up its projection for world merchandise trade volume in 2021 to 10.8% from 8% in March. While in Q2, trade volume growth shot up to 22%, for the rest of the year, it's expected to slow down to 10.9% in Q3, followed by 6.6% in Q4.

The most optimistic estimate is that disruptions could take a year to unwind, while the worst-case scenario is of a slowing down and reordering of world trade, as per RBI. And as Moody's Analytics noted, it'll get worse before it gets better. Buckle up.

THE battle for Zee Entertainment Enterprises (ZEEL) is replete with astounding twists and turns. But most interesting is the possible Reliance Industries (RIL) hand in a hostile takeover bid.

Market and media pundits had given up on Subhash Chandra, the dogged, old horse of Indian television. Few thought he could hold on to his company, but he's managed a temporary reprieve. Last Tuesday, the Bombay High Court granted an interim injunction against two of the largest shareholders — Invesco Developing Markets Fund and OFI Global China — calling an EGM to replace the old Zee team.

The Invesco Group, with a combined 17.88% holding, has sought the removal of Punit Goenka, son of Subhash Chandra and MD of ZEEL, and the appointment of 6 new 'independent' directors. Counsel for ZEEL, Gopal Subramaniam, told the court Invesco was attempting to run a profitable company to the ground.

Agreeing with ZEEL, Justice Gautam Patel, in his colourful order, said: "I am inclined to agree with Mr Subramaniam on all counts. I don't see how Goenka can be removed at all, leaving a managerial void to be possibly later filled. His removal causes an immediate vacancy and non-compliance. How this is to be done without prior permission of the MIB (Ministry of Information & Broadcasting) is also unclear."

The legal fight will go on, but what's behind this hostile takeover attempt? This is not a simple case of shareholder activism, as is being made out.

Diversification disaster

A little over 2 years ago, in July 2019, the company faced its first big crisis when Subhash Chandra could not meet his commitment to lenders. Many of them acquired his shares pledged against loans raised; others were paid off after several rounds of stake sales. From a holding of around 42% three years ago, Chandra's stake in the ZEEL quickly began to erode. It is today just 3.99%.

It is at that stage in mid-2019 that the Invesco Oppenheimer Developing Markets Fund was brought in as a stabilizing factor by Subhash Chandra. In addition to its earlier holding of around 7.2%, Invesco bought an additional 11% for ₹4,224 crore. The immediate crisis blew over, but what made these 'loyal' investors turn around and mount a hostile bid?

This is not a case study of Subhash Chandra and Zee as innocent victims in a takeover imbroglio. Chandra, since his early days as an oil and rice trader, and later when he pioneered private broadcasting in India, was known to punch hard and dirty above his weight. He took on Rupert Murdoch and Star TV, and with fewer resources, emerged as India's top broadcaster in the 1990s. Chandra and his brothers diversified into film production, multiplexes, and last-mile delivery through cable TV and DTH, and built a small but robust $1.5-billion empire.

But then the greed of diversification got the better of him. He got into the high cost game of infrastructure. He floated Essel Infra to build tolled roads and airports, and even bought a cruise liner along the way. With little domain knowledge in these areas, and financed by costly debt raised by the pledging Zee shares, it expectedly led to disaster.

By mid-2019, with lenders on his doorstep, Subhash Chandra was admitting he had bitten off more than he could chew. In an open letter, he said: "My obsession of not walking away from the situation has made me bleed up to ₹5,000 crore." But by then it was perhaps too late. Chandra and his family's shareholding had fallen to below 4% leaving it vulnerable to a takeover.

The RIL connection

Invesco's bid to unseat the Chandra management from ZEEL began with an EGM notice on 11th September. By 12 October, Punit Goenka, came out with the revelation that Invesco had been arm-twisting the company board to merge with a 'strategic group'.

"A deal was presented by Mr. Aroon Balani and Mr. Bhavtosh Vajpayee, representatives of Invesco, to Mr. Punit Goenka in February 2021, involving the merger of the company and certain entities owned by a large Indian group (strategic group)... Upon completion of the aforesaid merger, the strategic group would have held a majority stake in the merged entity," the ZEEL note said.

The next day, 13 October, Invesco fell into the trap and revealed the 'strategic group' was none other than Reliance. Invesco denied it "would seek out a transaction for Zee"; but in the same breath admitted: "The role of Invesco, as Zee's single largest shareholder, was to help facilitate that potential transaction." When Zee rejected these overtures, ouster became the name of the game!

This writer has known Subhash Chandra for over two decades and he is not one who can be bullied. But the one group he has always had a deferential fear about is Reliance. Chandra privately made no bones about who he was talking of in 2019 when he alluded to "negative forces" making a run for his company. As far as he was concerned, the takeover battle had begun more than two years ago.

Chandra's worries are not unfounded as Reliance has a successful track record as a 'predator'. In the media space, RIL's takeover of TV18 started with a bail-out of ₹1,700 extended to cash-strapped chief promoter Raghav Bahl in 2012. The funds came through a rights issue to allow Bahl to retain his stake in his companies. By May 2014, Reliance had taken over and Raghav Bahl exited selling his shares for a little over ₹700 crore. Sounds familiar?

Meanwhile, Zee remains an unfinished story. Will Zee's proposed merger with Sony Pictures Network, announced after the Invesco EGM notice, save Subhash Chandra? Or, will Sony ultimately take over? Was the EGM notice triggered by the smell of a Sony-Zee deal? Do Invesco-Reliance still have the stomach to fight it out? It's going to be an interesting story.

COVID FIGHT TAKES FOCUS OFF T.B.

In a recent article in Nature, researchers compared the urgency in developing Covid-19 vaccine to tuberculosis treatment, saying “equivalent efforts to develop a TB vaccine have never been as well committed or funded”. TB treatment protocol today is essentially the same as the Bacillus Calmette-Guérin (BCG) vaccine introduced in July 1921. When they say the pandemic has shown it’s possible to produce new vaccines in one year, not 100, if there is funding and political will, they aren’t off the mark. Let’s explore

- Projections suggest the impact of disruptions caused by the pandemic on people developing TB and dying from the disease could be much worse in 2021 and 2022
- Global TB targets are mostly off-track, although there are some country and regional success stories
- The immediate priority is to restore access to and provision of essential TB services

G20 NATIONS CALL FOR FASTER GLOBAL VAX DRIVE

Italy says poorer nations reeling under dose shortage is morally unacceptable; this year’s summit seeks to catalyse action on climate, too

CLIMATE

ROME: Italy’s Premier Mario Draghi made a sharp call to pick up the pace in getting vaccines to poor countries as he opened a conference of the world’s powerhouse economies, calling the gaping global Covid-19 vaccine gap “morally unacceptable.” Draghi, the host for the two-day Group of 20 summit in Rome, said Saturday that only 3% of people in the world’s poorest countries are vaccinated, while 70% in rich countries have had at least one shot.

Climate change, vaccines, the recovery, international taxation are all themes occupying leaders holding their first in-person summit since the pandemic took hold. The call for more vaccine help for low-income countries sounded a theme running through the G-20 summit, which confronts a two-track global recovery in which rich countries are bouncing back faster.

Draghi welcomed the Group of 20 leaders to Rome’s Nuvola cloud-like convention center in the Fascist-era EUR neighborhood, which was sealed off from the rest of the capital.

Saturday’s opening session was focused on global health and the economy. Rich countries have used vaccines and stimulus spending to restart economic activity, leaving the risk that developing countries that account for much of global growth will remain behind due to low vaccinations and financing difficulties.

UN Secretary General-General Antonio Guterres has underlined that rich countries have spent 28% of annual economic output on pandemic recovery, while the figure is 2% for the poorest nations.

European Union leaders will meet off-site with African leaders in efforts to further support the continent’s poorest economies in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic. French President Emmanuel Macron told reporters on Friday he expects the G-20 to confirm an additional $100 billion to support Africa’s economies. The money would be provided via the reallocation of part of $650 billion worth of special drawing rights, a foreign exchange tool used to help finance imports issued by the International Monetary Fund. The idea is for countries that don’t need the help to reallocate their special drawing rights to those that do. Participants were to include African Union President Felix Tshisekedi and Rwanda President Paul Kag-

ame. The heads of state of South Africa and Senegal, Cyril Ramaphosa and Macky Sall, will take part via videoconference. Italy is hoping the G-20 will secure key commitments from countries representing 80% of the global economy — and responsible for around the same amount of global carbon emissions — ahead of the U.N. climate conference that begins Sunday in Glasgow, Scotland.

Most of the heads of state and government who are in Rome will head to Glasgow as soon as the G-20 is over. Russian President Vladimir Putin and Chinese leader Xi Jinping are participating remotely.

China cracks down as cases driven by mutant surge

COVID

BEIJING: Beijing introduced new Covid-19 curbs on Saturday to stamp out a “serious” outbreak as the Chinese capital maintains its strict zero-tolerance policy, with less than 100 days before it hosts the Winter Olympics. China’s leading epidemiologist Zhong Nanshan said Saturday that authorities could contain a nationwide outbreak within a month — but also warned the “pandemic cannot be eradicated within a short period of time.”

The outbreak has hit at least 14 of China’s provinces and millions have been tested in the past week. The situation is “serious and complex” and the epidemic “is still developing rapidly”, Mi Feng, spokesperson for the National Health Commission, told a press conference Saturday in Beijing, authorities ordered all cinemas closed until November 14 in the capital’s Xicheng district, which lies west of Tiananmen Square and is home to over a million people. China announced 59 locally transmitted virus cases Saturday — the highest since mid-September — including two cases in Beijing linked to a tourist group infected in the north of the country.

While the number is low compared to daily case counts in other countries, authorities are pushing Beijing to contain the virus ahead of the Games, which begin on February 4. The city — which hosted the Summer Olympics in 2008 — will become the first to host both events. The new centre of the outbreak is 650 kilometres from Beijing, in the city of Er-enhot, on the border with Mongolia. Some six million Chinese people in cities where the virus has been detected are now under travel restrictions.

The country’s train operator will suspend or limit routes in affected areas, state news agency Xinhua reported Saturday.

Sun flare up sparks auroras

SPACE

A powerful solar flare erupted on our sun on Thursday, shooting out a giant cloud of particles toward Earth that should arrive this weekend and create stunning auroras this weekend — just in time for Halloween. The burst of light, which erupted at 11:35am ET, reached our planet just 8.5 minute after, but the natural light display is on the way and will be visible across the northern US, including Pennsylvania, Illinois and lower regions of Idaho. The National Weather Service says Americans in the northern part of the nation can expect to see the cosmic display both Saturday and Sunday. Spaceweather.com notes that a ‘strong G3-class geomagnetic storm is possible on October 30,’ which means voltage corrections may be required.

Sore point for early feline

STUDY

Just like modern felines, some sabre-toothed cats of 11,000–50,000 years ago suffered from hip dysplasia, and may have lived in packs so others might hunt for them. This is the conclusion of researchers led from the La Brea Tar Pits, who used CT scans to model the structure of one sabre-tooth’s deformed hip bones. Hip dysplasia is a birth defect of the hip’s ball and socket joints that today is not uncommon in pet cats and dogs and can result in pain and limited movement. The condition would have been challenging for sabre-tooth cats like Smilodon, which are believed to have hunted large prey like camels. Healthy limbs would have been necessary to take down prey, meaning those with hip defects would have needed support.

FDA clears Covid vax for 5-11 kids

VACCINE

WASHINGTON: The Food and Drug Administration on Friday paved the way for children ages 5 to 11 to get Pfizer’s COVID-19 vaccine.

The FDA cleared kid-size doses — just a third of the amount given to teens and adults — for emergency use, and up to 28 million more American children could be eligible for vaccinations as early as next week.

One more regulatory hurdle remains: On Tuesday, advisers to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention will make more detailed recommendations on which youngsters should get vaccinated, with a final decision by the agency’s director expected shortly afterwards.

“The rationale is protect your children so that they can get back to normal life,” said FDA vaccine chief Dr. Peter Marks. “The tremendous cost of this pandemic has not just been in physical illness, it’s been in the psychological, the social development of children” too.

Large storm delays NASA’s space journey

SPACE

WASHINGTON: NASA and SpaceX have delayed a mission sending four astronauts to the International Space Station to avoid “a large storm system,” the agency said Saturday.

The astronauts of “Crew-3” were due to launch aboard a Crew Dragon spacecraft named “Endurance” fixed atop a Falcon 9 rocket from the Kennedy Space Center in Florida on Sunday. But they will instead aim to launch at 1:10 am (0510 GMT) on Wednesday, which “would have Crew-3 arriving at the space station later the same day about 11 p.m. (0300 GMT),”

NASA said. They will then carry out “a short handover with the astronauts that flew to the station as part of the agency’s SpaceX Crew-2 mission.”

Should a launch on that date be impossible, “a backup opportunity” is available on November 4, SpaceX said on its website.

Art Therapy: How UK’s Covid memorial brought comfort

EDUCATION

LONDON: It can take between five and ten minutes to walk the heart-festooned memorial wall in London commemorating those who died from Covid-19 in the UK; far longer if you pause every few steps to read the messages of love that bereaved families and friends have overlaid the pink and red hearts with.

Walking along the 8-foot-high Portland stone wall on the south side of the River Thames, directly opposite the Houses of Parliament, is a somber experience, especially for those who lost someone and who think the British government could have done a lot more to prevent the U.K.’s enormous death toll during the pandemic.

As the global death toll nears 5 million, Britain officially has recorded around 140,000 fatalities, Europe’s second highest toll after Russia.

The National COVID Memorial Wall on a half-kilometer stretch of the Albert Embankment is dedicated to those who died, with each life lost represented by a carefully painted heart that volunteers freshen up on a weekly basis with long-lasting masonry paints.

There’s also the odd cake and a cup of coffee. For the volunteers, it’s a bit like art therapy — meditative.

“For me I think it has absolutely fulfilled the original intention which was to remind people of the scale of our loss,” said Fran Hall, a spokesperson for the COVID-19 Bereaved Families for Justice who lost her husband of three weeks, Steve Mead, in September 2020, a day before his 66th birthday.

Hall makes the weekly trek along with several others to ensure the hearts don’t fade to pink from luscious red and add inscriptions from those bereaved who can’t make the journey to the wall. “We’re getting red back onto the wall, to keep it vibrant,” said Hall. “As you walk along you’ll see thousands and thousands of names, so the hearts have been personalized. They’re all special.”

The memorial was established in March by the COVID-19 Bereaved Families for Justice and campaign group Led by Donkeys as a visual representation of the scale of loss in the U.K. during the pandemic. Incredibly it took less than two weeks for the army of volunteers to paint the 150,000 or so hearts.

The government has yet to give the wall official status, though Prime Minister Boris Johnson told bereaved families, including Hall herself, recently that it is a “good candidate” to be a permanent memorial.

“This memorial means so much to the bereaved as a lot of us could not have our last goodbyes,” said Amanda Herring who lost her 54-year old brother Mark Herring just before the U.K. was first put into lockdown in March 2020.

It has criticized Johnson and his Conservative government for mismanagement during the pandemic, including delaying lockdowns, a lack of protective gear for health workers, and having a too-lax travel policy — a combination that it says meant tens of thousands of people died needlessly.
